

GOVERNMENT ROUNDS UP SINN FEINERS IN ULSTER

HAMMONDS ARE GUILTY JURY VERDICT

Brothers are Convicted in Circuit Court on Charges of Making and Possessing Moonshine

DEFENSE CONTENDED "MYSTERY MAN" MADE THE MOONSHINE

William Hammond also Convicted on Charge of Secret- ing Fluid During Search

CHARLES J. and William Ham- mond were found guilty by a jury in circuit court late Monday on charges of manufacturing moonshine and having in their possession contrivances for the manufacture of the liquor.

Tuesday morning William Ham- mond was found guilty on a charge of secreting a fluid while the Star restaurant, which he and his brother oper- ate on Pearl street, was being searched by state and federal prohibi- tion deputies. This second case made two convictions against William Ham- mond and one against Charles Ham- mond.

The Hammond brothers owned a shack on a lot, which they were buying on a land contract, at Twenty-first street and Park avenue. The shack was raided by state prohibition deputy commis- sioners. They confiscated a number of gallons of moonshine, alcohol, stills, stoves and coolers and destroyed gallons of mash.

"Mysterious Stranger"

The defense of the Hammond brothers was that they had rented the shack to a William Hauser, a "mys- terious stranger," last October, that they did not know where the man came from, what he wanted to do with the shack or what he used it for. When Hauser left the city, the Ham- monds had no idea where he went, they declared. They denied all knowl- edge of moonshine being made in the shack.

The jury was composed of Anna Ryan, Frank Petroski, William Beck- er, Anna Schams, Rose Hammes, Alice Drummond, Gus Staff, C. F. Hoffmann, A. T. Hanson, Nellie Moos, Robert H. Barum and E. A. Bodett. Mr. Bodett being chosen foreman.

At the conclusion of the joint trial of the two brothers William Ham- mond was put on trial on charges of secreting a fluid while the premises, the Star restaurant on Pearl street, which is now being operated by the Hammond, was being searched by federal and state prohibition enforce- ment deputies.

Secrated Fluid is Charge

A state prohibition deputy commis- sioner testified that he saw William Hammond empty the contents of a

LEATHEN D. SMITH OF STURGEON BAY VISITS LA CROSSE

LEATHEN D. SMITH

LEATHEN D. Smith, Sturgeon Bay business man who has announced his desire to run against Senator La Follette, subject to the decision of the convention called by the Commit- tee of 44, spent a few hours in La Crosse Tuesday morning on his way from Madison to Chippewa Falls. Mr. Smith called at the office of Otto Rossbard, chairman of the Commit- tee of 44, and met several other lead- ers of the committee wing of the re- publican party.

Mr. Smith is a vigorous young man of 36, a graduate of the engi- neering department of the state uni- versity, and at the head of a num- ber of business concerns in his home city. He is also a director in a bank at Sturgeon Bay, and interested in the Door County cooperative company which markets the crop of the cherry orchards.

In his visit to La Crosse Mr. Smith expressed himself as confident of the possibility of defeating Senator La Follette. The election, he said, would turn upon the farmer vote, and he declared that the non-constructive record and program of La Follette would be ineffective against an ar- rived presentation of a program, based on the farmer's position as the biggest business man, collectively, in the state.

JEWELS RETURNED; CASE DROPS WITH MYSTERY UNSOLVED

Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Foster Get Rings Back and C. R. Mills is Freed

A TINY Tribune want ad having pro- duced quick and efficient results in securing the return of a diamond ring and other valuables belonging to Mrs. C. R. Mills and Mrs. Marion Foster, 713 Mill street, and Circuit Judge C. A. Fowler having consented to dismissal of a grand larceny charge against C. R. Mills, accused of taking them, nothing but an ouija board or some occult power will ever unravel the mystery of who took the rings.

Agrees to Dismissal

District Attorney Reid agreed to a dismissal of the case against Mills in circuit court Tuesday morning, on petition of Fred H. Hartwell, attorney for Mills, on the grounds that justice had been served, the rings having been returned and Mills having served some time in the county jail before he was able to get bail.

It also was stated that the girl in- volved in the "friendly triangle" re- vealed when the larceny charge was heard in county court, now is married.

Last February a diamond ring of Mrs. Mills and rings and $25 owned by Mrs. Mills disappeared mysteri- ously from the home occupied jointly by the Mills and the Fosters at 713 Mill street. There was evidence that the place had been ransacked. Several days later a mysterious telephone call was received, the caller telling Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Mills that if they would call a certain number they would learn where their rings were.

The next move in the case was the insertion of an ad in The La Crosse Tribune, asking for the return of the rings, with "no questions asked." Several days later, the rings were re- turned by mail.

Then Mills was charged with the robbery and was arrested. In county court, the "girl in the friendly trian- gle," the one who, it was said, had Mrs. Mills' diamond ring, was called as a witness. She said that Mills had given her a ring, similar to Mrs. Mills' ring, but it was too big and that Mills took it back, saying he would get her another ring. Mrs. Mills' ring was tried on the girl's finger in county court by Mr. Hartwell but it was too small.

Despite Mills' denial of the charges he was held for trial in circuit court.

BRITAIN TO CALL ON JAPAN TO KEEP WORD TO WITHDRAW FROM RUSSIAN TERRITORY

LONDON.—A request by the British government that Japan evacuate Russian territory without further delay will soon be forthcoming. Austen Chamberlain told the house of commons Monday. This statement was made during a discussion by the house of Japan's promise to withdraw, made during the disarmament conference in Washington.

A request by J. R. Clynes, the British labor leader, for information relative to the statement of M. Tchitcherine, Russian delegate to the Ge- noa conference, warning that any attack on the Far Eastern republic by Japan would bring about a state of war with Russia, brought forth the fact that the London-Tokio negotiations were under way.

Mr. Chamberlain also announced that discussions were being carried on by the allies regarding means for bringing pressure upon Germany to give serious attention to the matter of punishing war criminals.

Premier Lloyd George will speak in the house of commons Thursday on the Genoa conference. Mr. Chamberlain said. He further stated that Lloyd George would not attend The Hague meeting.

ALBERT LEA IS RECOVERING FROM ITS BIGGEST FIRE

Reconstruction Starts Quickly After Million Dollar Blaze in Business Section

SPRINKLER SYSTEM IN BIG STORE STOPS THE FLAMES

State Fire Marshal Investigating Cause of Fire

ALBERT LEA, Minn.—(Special to The Tribune.)—Firms put out of business in the million dollar fire Sunday night are either seeking temporary loca- tions or are already located and have opened up. The entire sec- tion destroyed will be replaced with bigger and better buildings entirely fireproof.

Plans are now under way to remove the debris from the Jen- son Clothing company and Central Electric company sites, and build a fine modern home for the Albert Lea State bank. Other buildings partly destroyed will be rebuilt at once.

All insurance adjusters are here and as soon as adjustments are made work of rebuilding will start. The state fire marshal is on the ground investigating as to the origin of the fire. All salvaged goods have been put into warehouses. Those losing much of their stock have ordered fresh supplies.

Reconstruction Starts

ALBERT LEA, Minn.—Crews of men Tuesday were at work preparing for the reconstruction of a portion of Albert Lea's business district, which was swept by fire Sunday.

Insurance adjusters were at the scene of the wreckage taking inven- tory of the various stocks preliminary to making an appraisal of the loss, which is approximated at from $750,000 to $1,000,000.

Buildings razed by the flames were on the south side of East Williams street, in the block from Broadway to Newton street, and on the east side of Broadway from East Williams street for more than half a block toward Main street.

For more than three hours the fire raged until the water sprinkler sys- tem in the Skinner, Chamberlain & Co. store on Broadway halted its progress down the city's principal thoroughfare. The store has an out- side water curtain system that pre- vented the flames from attacking the building successfully.

Buildings and stocks destroyed in- cluded those of the Christanson gar- age, the Robert Meyers harness store, the C. R. Borland Grocery and Cloth- ing company, and the Central Electric company. Henry Harm's jewelry and two small restaurants.

The deluge of water at the Skinner- Chamberlain store drenched the stocks of its four floors and the basement in four departments, and fire did slight damage to the upholstery section of the furniture department. The water damage made the Skinner-Chamber- lain company the biggest individual loser.

WIRELESS FAILS TO LOCATE WOOD YACHT LOST IN TYPHOON

MANILA.—By The Associated Press.—Wireless, queries to the yacht Apo, on which Governor General Leonard Wood and his wife and daughter sailed Satur- day for Mindoro, have not been answered and the typhoon which raged Monday is believed respon- sible for the delay in their re- turn. The Apo is believed to have sought refuge in some port of Mindoro. General Wood plan- ned a brief inspection on the island. No serious damage from the typhoon has been reported.

STATE ANTI-TRUST LAW IS UPHELD BY MARINETTE JUDGE

Overrules Demurrers Filed in Suits Against Tobacco and Plumbing Supply Firms

LAW GIVES ATTORNEY GENERAL AUTHORITY TO BEGIN ACTION

Cases Involve Right to Combine to Exchange Trade Data

MADISON, Wis.—The Wisconsin anti-trust law, enacted by the 1921 legislature at the request of Attorney General Morgan, was held constitutional late Monday by Judge W. B. Quilan at Marinette in overruling demurrers interposed in an action commenced by the attorney general against an alleged combination of to- bacco companies in restraint of trade.

At the same time Judge Quilan over- ruled the demurrer to the state's complaint against an organization of Wisconsin wholesale plumbing supply companies, which involved substan- tially the same constitutional ques- tions as those in the tobacco cases.

It was held that the anti-trust bill had been regularly passed by the legislature and that the law, as enacted and signed by the governor, was not a violation of the constitu- tional provision guaranteeing against a deprivation of property without due process of law, nor of the pro- vision guaranteeing the right of con- tract.

Deciding on the right of Attorney General Morgan to bring the anti- trust actions, questioned by the companies, Judge Quilan held that under the statute he had an absolute duty to perform which was imperative and that it was not necessary to have any request or direction from superior authority.

Under this law, it was held, the attorney general has authority to pro- ceed on his own initiative and do anything necessary to enforce its pro- visions. The court decided that there was but one cause of action against the several companies and that all would be sued in one action, stating that the state had a cause of action entitling it to an injunction restrain- ing the operation of the combination and that the court might retain juris- diction to collect the forfeitures as additional relief.

The cases commenced by the at- torney general involved the right of tobacco dealers and plumbing supply companies to combine for the ex- change of trade information.

GIRLS TRYING OUT NEW RACER INJURED IN FALL OVER BANK

MADISON, Wis.—Helen Horde, Des Moines, Iowa, student at the University of Wisconsin, was seriously injured, and her companion, Mar- guerite Sherwood, Chicago, student, received a broken knee, when the new racing car owned by Miss Horde turned turtle on the Verona road near here late Monday.

The girls were giving the racer its first trial. They failed to consider the condition of the road and while speeding, lost control of the machine, which swerved to the side of the high- way and turned over three times.

Miss Horde has severe lacerations about the face as a result of the ac- cident, while her companion is in the hospital with a broken knee.

PAYS $52.50 FINE FOR DRIVING AUTO WHILE INTOXICATED

A. C. Charles was fined $52.50 in police court Tuesday morning on a charge of driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor. Charles, police said, had no mishap but was halted when seen to be intoxicated in his machine.

On Monday afternoon Arthur C. Klein and William Colway paid $12.50 each on a charge of speeding.

THREE HUNDRED ARE CAUGHT IN POLICE DRAGNET

North Ireland Government in Drive Against all Sinn Fein Organizations in Ulster Counties

MEN TAKEN IN MONDAY NIGHT RAIDS WILL BE INTERNEED

Majority of Those Arrested are Republican Army Officers

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—At Tuesday's meeting of the parliament of Northern Ire- land, Sir James Craig, the prem- ier, announced that the Irish republican army had been pro- claimed an illegal assembly, says a Central News despatch from Belfast. The parliament later ad- journed as a mark of respect to W. J. Twaddell, its murdered member.

BELFAST.—By The Associated Press.—The greatest raid in the recent history of Ireland was carried out early Tuesday when swarms of police swept through Ulster and rounded up 300 Sinn Feiners, the majority of whom were Irish republican army officers. It was officially an- nounced they will be interned.

The northern government's action was taken, it was stated, in an effort to suppress not only the Irish repub- lican army and the Irish republican brotherhood, but all other Sinn Fein organizations in the six counties.

The government's move follows swiftly upon Irish republican army raids and burnings of buildings in the counties of Down and Antrim, and the intensified hostilities in Belfast recently, culminating in the murder Monday of W. J. Twaddell, minister of the Ulster parliament.

Nearly every town and village in Ulster was visited, but the bulk of the prisoners was taken in the country districts from farm houses. Compara- tively few captures were made in Bel- fast, as most of the Irish republican army men living in the Sinn Fein dis- tricts of Belfast, anticipating action by the police as a result of the Twad- dell assassination, had "gone on the run."

Officials Taken in Raid

The captures include Capal Healy, member of the Fermanagh county council and prominent Sinn Fein lead- er in that district; Thomas Corrigan, accountant for the Fermanagh county council; Samuel Sheridan, chairman of the recently dissolved Newry boards of guardians, and Eugene Mc- Gilligan, county councillor, who was Sinn Fein candidate in North Derry at the last general election.

The early estimates of the number of prisoners taken ran as high as 1,500, but these proved to be greatly exaggerated, and officials expressed belief that up to this noon the total had not exceeded 300. In Belfast, particularly, the number of Irish repub- lican army men caught fell far below the early estimate.

The Ulster government announced that members of the Irish republican army, Irish republican brotherhood, Irish Volunteers, the Sinn Fein, Girl Guides and Boy Scouts were liable to arrest and prosecution.

The big encircling movement was begun at about four o'clock and the work of visiting the various houses, town and country, was rapidly carried out. Several hundred members of the constabulary and a large staff of offi- cers were on duty from midnight com- pleting the arrangements. Most of those wanted were completely surpris- ed and in nearly every instance arouse- from sleep.

Ratify Peace Agreement

DUBLIN.—By The Associated Press.—The Ard Fheis, the national Sinn Fein organization, ratified at its meeting Tuesday the agreement reached last week by the factions in the dail eireann regarding elections and the composition of the government. After voting its approval the session adjourned.

Michael Collins, head of the pro- visional government, in addressing the Ard Fheis, said the value of the agreement reached by the dail last Saturday was that it secured the uni- ty of the nation, enabling Ireland to end the disorder. "If, as has been said, this agreement imperils the An- glo-Irish treaty," said Collins, "we will have to face that in this manner. We have made an agreement which will bring stable conditions to the country, and if these stable conditions are not more valuable than any other agreement, then we must face what these stable conditions will enable us to face."

WOUNDED FISHERMAN TO BE CHARGED WITH ASSAULT TO MURDER

WOLFE TAKES HIS FIGHT ON SEARCH WARRANT HIGHER

Declares Schaller-McClanathan Writes Insufficient; No Find- ings by Judge of an Offense

JUDGE FOWLER TO GET BRIEFS FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Charges of Illegal Possession Taken up in Circuit Court

JUDGE Chester A. Fowler late Mon- day postponed the cases of Matt Schaller and John McClanathan, charged with violations of the pro- hibition law pending the filing of briefs on the cases by the state's attorney general.

Albert C. Wolfe, attorney for Schaller and McClanathan, argued that the search warrants used by the authorities in searching the homes of McClanathan and Schaller were insufficient on the grounds that there are no findings by the judge issuing the warrants that an offense had been committed. Mr. Wolfe cited decisions of the supreme court of Wyoming and the United States supreme court as authorities for his contentions.

Schaller Raided Twice

Federal prohibition enforcement deputies raided Schaller's home twice. The first time they confiscated two elaborate stills. The second time they discovered several gallons of moonshine and five 100-pound sacks of sugar hidden in a vault un- der the pantry floor.

In a visit to the home of John McClanathan, a small quantity of moonshine was found.

Tuesday morning the case of Jo- seph Hahn, who conducts a soft drink establishment at Rose and St. Cloud streets, and who is charged with having intoxicating liquor on premises controlled by him, was taken up. John H. Doherty is attorney for Hahn.

Liquor in Pantry

Witnesses for the state testified that a gallon jug, containing moon- shine was found in the pantry on the second floor of the establishment operated by Hahn, when the place was searched several weeks ago. An empty quart flask, both of which smelled of liquor, according to testi- mony, also were confiscated. The witnesses also asserted they found a number of empty glass jugs and liquor flasks, ranging in size from a half pint to a quart in a pantry and in a cellar of Hahn's place.

Mr. Doherty, in his opening re- marks to the jury, declared that the testimony would show that Hahn and his family occupy the premises at Rose and St. Cloud, with John McGuire, Hahn's brother-in-law and bartender, that Hahn had left his home at noon, that the raid was made at 4 or 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and that Hahn knew no- thing about the liquor being in his pantry or that his home had been raided until he returned at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Doherty further stated that the defense would show that the liquor had been brought upstairs and placed in the pantry by McGuire 15 min- utes before Sheriff Miller and the federal deputies arrived.

Hahn Denies Ownership

Joe Hahn and his wife were placed on the stand. Hahn swore that the first time he had seen the liquor that had been confiscated was when it was shown as an exhibit at his trial in county court. Mrs. Hahn testified that McGuire had brought the jug of hooch upstairs and placed it in the pantry. It was wrapped in paper, she said. Mr. McGuire, when put on the stand, denied know- ing anything about the liquor.

A state witness had testified that while the raiding party was in the Hahn living quarters he heard a wo- man's voice say over a telephone "We have been caught," or "They got us this time." Mr. Doherty called Albert Johnson, wire chief of the La Crosse Telephone company to the witness stand. Johnson testified that the records of his office do not show that there has been a telephone in Joe Hahn's name in two years and that there is no phone at present in his home. Mrs. Hahn and her hus- band also testified that they have not had a phone or extension of a phone in their living quarters in two years.

WARDEN SAYS HE ATTACKED WITH AN IRON

Curtis Claims Ben Boyer Struck Him Three Times With Bar After Leaping into Wardens' Boat

WARRANT TO BE SERVED ON BOYER IN HOSPITAL HERE

Warden Relates His Side of Story While in La Crosse Today

When Ben Boyer, commercial fisherman, wounded in a clash with game wardens at Hylmans, north of Lynxville, is able to leave St. Francis hospital, he will be served with a warrant charging him with assault with intent to kill. The warrant, it is said, was issued at Prairie du Chien by the district attorney of Crawford county.

That Boyer was shot after he had attacked Game Warden P. S. Curtis with an iron bar, was the statement of Mr. Curtis, who was in La Crosse today.

Find Net in River

"Warden Frank Hickok and I were making a trip down river in a flat boat equipped with a three-horse power engine," said Mr. Curtis. "Near Hylmans, on the Wisconsin side of the river, in our territory, we found a trammel net in the channel. We seized the net and as we started to gather it in a boat containing Boyer, his son, Floyd, and Earl Cunningham, approached, heading to strike us amidships. I grabbed the bow of the boat as it was about to strike our boat and turned it so it swung alongside our craft. The three fishermen jumped into our boat. Boyer swung on iron bar as he leaped into the boat and as he rushed at me said: 'I'll kill you.'

Hit Three Times

"The first blow of the iron bar I caught in the palm of the hand. I tried to get the bar from him but was not quick enough. He swung again and hit me on the back. The third blow hit me on the head and I fell across the edge of the boat, my head striking the water. I recovered instantly, got back on my feet and pulling my revolver from my coat pocket, began firing. When Boyer was shot in the mouth he fell into his own boat with his legs dangling into our boat. His son, Floyd, helped me lift him and arrange him as comfortably as possible in his own boat. I asked the son where the nearest doctor could be found. He said 'Lansing.' I told him to get his father there as quickly as possible because he was badly wounded. Their boat started right off down river. It was a faster boat than our craft and I know they did not lose any time in getting to Lansing.

Claims Self Defense

"I am sorry that I had to shoot Boyer, but it was in self defense. I did not pull my revolver until I felt it was necessary. Hickok was fight- ing the other two fishermen in the other end of the boat, while I was engaging with Ben Boyer. The fighting stopped when I began to shoot.

Dog Saved Him

"I am a gun fighting officer. I seldom use my revolver. It is usu- ally in my grip. I happened to have it in my coat on that day because I had taken it out of the grip a few miles up river to take a shot at a dog which was chasing a rabbit along the shore. I didn't hit the dog but the bullet landed close enough to him to make him give up the chase. After firing that shot I slipped the gun into my coat pocket. Had it not been for the dog the revolver would have been in my grip and I probably would have been killed with that iron bar.

"The fishermen had a rifle in their boat which we seized, together with the iron bar and trammel net. They will be used as evidence against Boyer when he is arraigned in court at Prairie du Chien."

TRACK SQUAD LOSES TO WINONA TEACHERS

Holley is Star With Four Firsts; Gross Second

The La Crosse High School track team met defeat at the hands of the Winona Teachers' College in a dual meet on Friday afternoon at the high school athletic field. The locals started out strong, capturing the first four events, but the end of the meet found them on the small side of a 62 to 55 score.

Holley was the individual star, winning four firsts, totaling 20 points. He took first in the 100 yard dash, broad jump, 220 yard dash, and the 220 low hurdles. Gross of Winona was the next highest scorer. He took one first, two seconds, and two thirds for a score of 13. Liscovec, Wedge, and Risser were the next heaviest scorers, each receiving 10 points.

Out of the thirteen events, La Crosse won eight firsts while Winona won but five. The Winonans made up for this by taking ten seconds to La Crosse's three.

The showing made by the locals was much better than they had expected, notably, in track events.

Summary of events:

100 yard dash—First, Holley, La Crosse; second, Gross, Winona; third, Murphy, La Crosse. Time: 10 4-5.

Shot Put—First, Liscovec, La Crosse; second, Gross, Winona; third, Vondrashek, Winona. Distance: 40 feet, 1 inch.

220 yard high hurdles—First, Tausche, La Crosse; second, Lashaw, La Crosse; third, Wedge, Winona. Time: 22.

Broad jump—First, Holley, La Crosse; second, Wedge, Winona; third, Gross, Winona. Distance: 18 feet, 8 1-2 inches.

1 mile—First, Risset, Winona; second, Barr, Winona; third, Birnbaum, La Crosse. Time: 5:5 3-5.

Discus—First, Liscovec, La Crosse; second, Vondrashek, Winona; third, Gross, Winona. Distance: 112 feet, 1 inch.

220 yard dash—First, Holley, La Crosse; second, O'Hare, Winona; third, Mitchell, Winona. Time: 24 2-5.

High jump—First, Shepardsen, La Crosse; second, Lynch, Winona; third, Dunham, La Crosse. Height: 5 feet, 1 inch.

Pole Vault—First, Pelowski, Winona; second, Jenks, La Crosse; third, Tausche, La Crosse. Height: 9 feet.

440 yard dash—First, O'Hare, Winona; third, Molzahn, La Crosse. Cameron, La Crosse. Time: 60.

Javelin—First, Gross, Winona; second, Bateman, La Crosse; third, Vondrashek, Winona. Distance: 128 1-2 feet.

220 yard low hurdles—First, Holley, La Crosse; second, Wedge, Winona; third, Molzahn, La Crosse.

Half Mile—First, Risset, Winona; second, Barr, Winona; third, Harget, La Crosse. Time: 2:16 3-5.

WINNERS OF HISTORY CONTEST

The annual essay contest given by the National Society of Colonial Daughters was won this year by Kermit Engbretson, who wrote on "Americanism." Second place was awarded to Lydia Burdick, whose subject was "Requirements of Good Citizenship," and third went to Roy Smith's "Pioneer Days in Wisconsin."

This contest is open only to American history students and the essays could be written on any subject involving patriotism and civic ideals. The winner, Kermit Engbretson, will receive a bronze medal and his essay will be sent to the National Society of Colonial Daughters at Washington.

The winner of last year's contest was Myrta Widmeyer, who wrote on "Americanization."

CANNON MADE FOR BOY SCOUTS

A piece of work that is representative of the combined efforts of the drawing classes, pattern-making and machine shop classes will be presented to the Boy Scouts of La Crosse—a cannon. It is twenty-one inches in length, three inches in diameter, is mounted on a carriage, shoots eight gauge shells, and is capable of shooting a salute of twenty-one shots in thirty-three seconds. It is in every way characteristic of the modern cannon.

This cannon is to be used Memorial day to fire a salute in the honor of the dead soldiers and also to be used at the scout camp for reveille and retreat.

A BIT OF ADVICE

Now that it is drawing toward the close of the semester what plans are you making for next fall? Do you intend to come back to school and continue your education or are you thinking of going to work? Have you made a poor record, become discouraged and going to give up school?

If you are, stop and think! This is one of the critical problems of life and what you decide will have a great influence on your future career. Don't you think such an important decision requires more thought and consideration? Are you willing to throw away one of the greatest opportunities in your life?

Perhaps you have failed in one or more subjects; perhaps everything does seem against you and you are going to give up all effort. You may think this term has been worthless but if you have seen your mistakes and are determined to do better, then you have learned a lesson and nothing is worthless that teaches you something worth while.

What would you say if someone called you a quitter? Yet that is just what you are if you let one failure discourage you. A subject may be difficult but nothing can stop will power and determination if coupled with lots of real hard work. Let that failure make you work just that much harder and whatever you are, don't be a quitter.

COMMENCEMENT ON JUNE 9TH

The commencement exercises for La Crosse high school will be held on Thursday, June 9th in the high school auditorium. There is an unusually large class, in the neighborhood of one hundred and fifty students who will complete their courses at this time.

The Salutatorian will be Lois Woods; the Valedictorian, Bernice Johnson. The other speakers for the evening are Maleta Scheelenburg, Placidus Leinfelder, and Carleton Burke.

Following the commencement exercises, a reception will be given in the Hixon Annex to enable the faculty, parents, students, and friends to extend best wishes for the future to the 1922 graduates.

GYM STUDENTS GIVE ANNUAL EXHIBITION

Drills and Dances Are Features of Program

The department of physical education gave their annual demonstration Thursday, May 18, in the afternoon and evening in the Hixon gymnasium under the direction of Miss Nichols and Mr. Keogan.

The boys' gym classes showed program with a basketball drill in three parts: (1) the referee and center, (2) guard and forward, (3) and the referee. The whistling of the referee, and the call, "Game is over now," was very effective and different from the remainder of the program.

The boys' gym classes showed ability and skill in their drills and relay races. The "tug of war" and the relay race were received with a great deal of enthusiasm and mirth on the part of the audience. The apparatus exercises of the boys on the vaulting horse, vaulting buck and parallel bars also were well performed. The various other drills by the boys and the "human hurdle race" were a credit to their instructors.

The north side students were well represented by their boxers in the persons of George Coughlin and Allie Larkin.

The girls in their marching drill and free exercise drill showed co-operation and skill in the way they went through it. The several fancy dances were gracefully performed. The Shamrock couple dance, skating waltz, and jockey dance were particularly pleasing. In the ribbon dance one could well imagine the girls as gypsies doing some tribal dance. The red, white and blue game by the girls and mass game by the boys concluded the exhibition.

Miss Nichols and Gertrude Salzer were the accompanists for the girls' drill and dancing classes and in the evening the high school orchestra played several selections. Three practice teachers from the normal school directed the boys in their drills. The gymnasium was well filled with enthusiastic spectators who seemed to enjoy the program.

SCHOOL GOSSIP

The preliminary contest for the Junior "Ex" was held Friday afternoon in 214. Julius Roth presided as chairman. Those chosen to speak in Assembly are Gertrude Walz, Mildred Noem, Rachel Jones, Josephine Haun, Kermit Engbretson, Herbert Ristow, Frank Schaeffer, and Kenneth Russell.

The Memorial Day program will be given Monday. A Memory tree, a Schwedlerii maple, will be planted on the East campus. The program will be brief, consisting of music and an address. The High School Boy Scouts will participate.

The Cooking 11 classes are studying how and what to serve to convalescents.

Monday the French IV class, period IV wrote stories in French and drew pictures of places of interest in France.

Tuesday afternoon after school the Glee Clubs will have a picnic at Waterloo Bridge. All those who assisted them at the opera are invited.

The seventh period Senior Latin class is the winner of the bulletin board contest which was held among the Latin classes. Their bulletin board was very attractive and several novel ideas were carried out.

Miss Dickenson entertained the "Library Round Table" Saturday afternoon. The time was spent in playing games. Elizabeth Luck won the prize for finding the most words hidden in the words "Library Round Table."

In the latter part of the afternoon, refreshments were served in the reading room. A color scheme of blue was carried out very cleverly.

This is an annual occasion and is usually held in May.

The "Mock Trial" presented by the members of the Lincoln Douglas Debating Society last Friday evening was very interesting and amusing to all who witnessed the performance as it is an out of the ordinary way of entertainment. Both attorneys Paul Larson and Kermit Engbretson showed bursts of oratory and great skill in refuting the declarations of their opponents.

The writings provided much mirth with the contradictory statements and clever sayings. The jury voted 4 to 3 for conviction but due to a technical error the case was appealed to a higher court and therefore the fate of the luckless prisoner Eugene Habernicht is yet in doubt.

Miss Agnes Hayes was absent from school last Friday.

An advanced junior meeting was called Thursday the 8th period in the auditorium. Mr. Wiley acted as chairman and plans for the Junior-Senior party were discussed. Mr. Wiley read a report from the finance committee after which a discussion followed.

Miss Cook's sewing III class started their last problem Monday which is a dress.

Norman Hale passed some pictures around the French III class, that were taken in France during the war.

Mr. Curt Conner spoke to the botany classes Tuesday on the care and feeding of usual and unusual pets. Mr. Conner is a lover of nature and has considerable experience with wild animals of the lower type.

How to carry a porcupine was one of the things Mr. Conner discussed. He discouraged the purpose of taming animals for shows and exhibitions. When taming animals, they should be given proper conditions and the best of care. His talk contained many valuable suggestions. At present he is engaged in ministerial work in Southern Illinois.

Registration for summer school is still progressing and a large attendance is anticipated. The schedule for the summer school session will be made public very soon.

The cabinet-making classes are finishing up their projects and so if you wish to see real furniture just take a peek over there some time.

The Parent-Teacher Association held their last meeting of this semester in the high school auditorium last Tuesday evening. The eighth grade students and their parents were also invited to this meeting. They were shown the building and its different departments so as to acquaint these students who will enter this school next fall with the school itself, its many departments, its teachers, and the subjects taught here. After the meeting a social hour was held in the gymnasium, all having a very good time.

A group of high school students enjoyed a party at Stevens' on French Island last Tuesday evening in honor of Eustace Boyle.

As Told in a Series of Six Articles by MILTON BRONNER

After a First-Hand Study of Stinnes' Enterprises

America thinks it knows something about "Big business."

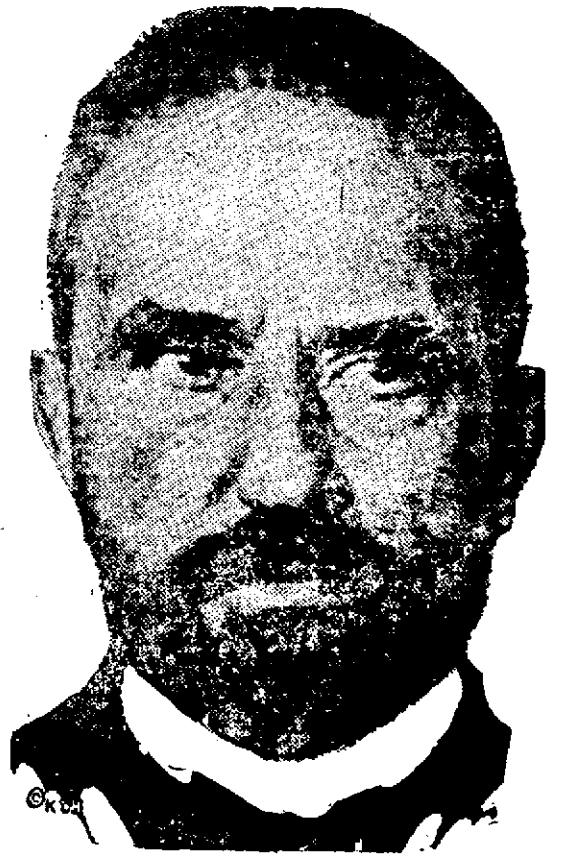

Henry Ford employs 75,000 men; the U. S. Steel Corporation, 275,000; the Bell System, 225,000; the U. S. government, 600,000; the entire coal industry, 740,000.

Hugo Stinnes, "Germany's new Kaiser," has ONE MILLION persons on his payroll. He operates ships, mines, factories, electrical works, railroads, newspapers, and many other industries. He is probably the biggest business man in the history of the world.

What kind of a man is he? Why does he pile up his fortunes? What are his political and economic beliefs? Who are his business enemies?

Milton Bronner, NEA Service European manager, went to Germany to make a first-hand study of Stinnes and his operations. Bronner has just completed a series of six articles on this man whose far-flung activities pale other individual achievements into comparative insignificance.

A GOOD WORD
HEAVINESS in the heart of man maketh it stoop; but a good maketh it glad.—Proverbs, 12: 25.

Funny Mr. Dempsey

JACK Dempsey is a fine boxer, and heavyweight champion of the world with a clear title, but as a joker Jack is a pork-and-beaner. He thought it was a great joke on the reporters who met him when he landed from Europe to announce his engagement to a mythical woman in the west. It is a queer notion of a joke, one may think, which believes that a lie told to the public is funny. It indicates that the joker does not properly value the sympathy and support which the public has granted him. Even heavyweight champions cannot flout the public with safety; Dempsey is not popular enough to take chances. Everybody knew that he outclassed Carpentier at Jersey City, but the Frenchman was the popular favorite and the bulk of the crowd was pulling for him against its judgment. The heavyweight title is only worth what it will draw at the box-office. If Dempsey puts over a few more silly jokes on the public it may not be worth anything to him. Jack had better hire a humorist to manage his mind, if he wants to make jokes. His forte is mauling, and when he gets off his beat it is at once apparent that he is a heavyweight only from the neck down.

Future Movies

TEN years the motion picture will rival grand opera as an artistic production. This is the prophecy, not by the ghost of Bill Nye talking over the ouija board, but by Samuel L. Rothafel, celebrated designer and director of the Capitol Theater in New York. If Rothafel is right, the movies have a long way to go and it will have to be a fast clip.

The movies, however, come in for a lot of unjust criticism. Critics forget that the motion picture is a baby among the various kinds of theatrical entertainments. It took thousands of years for the legitimate stage to develop modern scenic effects. Even in Shakespeare's day, scenery consisted of a bare stage with signs like "This is a forest" or "This is a street in Rome." The movies are like everything else. Americans expect a new device to be perfected the day after it is invented.

Do you remember the movies, back before the days of John Bunny? Compared with the present, they were mechanical frights. Movie photography has become an art. The badly-ventilated vacant storeroom in which movies were exhibited ten years ago has developed into an art-palace. The best of modern movie acting, too, is an art alongside the crude shadowland acting of a decade ago. The only real fault in the movies that they tell the wrong stories—often stupid and asinine. Time will change that.

Rothafel has a golden dream of future movies. He believes movie theaters will be shaped like an egg, the pictures made realistic by a fusion of colors, high-grade music, magic lighting effects, the characters "talking" their lines, with sounds and even odors reproduced to complete the hypnotic state of the audience. Rothafel even predicts that movie theaters will be endowed by national, state and city governments, like the endowed theaters of ancient Greece.

In the background, however, is the possibility that ten years from now movie theaters may be closed, with the finest movies broadcasted by wireless to the humblest homes. In that case, you wonder, who would pay the actors? It would be the same process as the future of radio music. The finest vocal and instrumental talent will undoubtedly be employed by the radio industry as a free inducement to further the sales of their instruments.

Old-Time Parlors

DO YOU remember the old-time parlors of a generation ago? They were great show-places, with their frail gilded chair, settee upholstered in horse-hair, family album, stereoscope, china parlor lamp hand-painted in gorgeous colors, and the footstool made of six tin cans covered with carpet. Over in the corner was the "what-not" its shelves littered with sea shells, souvenirs from the Philadelphia Centennial and the jug covered with an amazing collection of junk imbedded in putty. Awestricken children used to peek into the parlor when mother was out in her new alpaca "leaving cards on" the banker's wife and other social lights. For one was allowed in the parlor only on state occasions—funerals, when the minister called, when "company came," or when sister entertained the young sport who drove up in a side-bar buggy. Shades were drawn in the daytime or shutters closed to keep the sun from fading the brussels carpet.

Next to the parlor was the sitting-room, center of home life, where Little Willie read "Rollo in Paris," mother darned the socks and later read "Godey's Lady's Book," and father read the headline news from Washington, close up to the smoking oil lamp, squinting his eyes as he peered through "specs." We laugh at that atmosphere now. But it produced some "mighty substantial folks."

Changed conditions of home life—autos, movies, dancing, up-lift clubs—have developed new problems, says John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education.

"When I was a boy," says Tigert, "the basis for education, morals and good citizenship was laid in the home. Home was the center of the family's interest and affection. There was taught good old-fashioned dogma. Each family felt and recognized its responsibility for the ideas and ideals of each of its members."

"But, to a very great and growing extent, that is not true today. Now the boy and girl, the young man and young woman, in morals and ideals are shaped more and more by the community and less and less by home influence."

To meet this situation, parents must pay greater attention to community life. They must see to it, that all community enterprises are on the highest possible plane. For the community now must supply the view-point and attitude toward life which the family circle formerly supplied. Women intuitively have sensed this. That is the real reason why they have insisted on a voice in politics and the affairs of the community. All this is an expression of their desire to produce better citizens. That, too, is why woman's place still is in the home—but only part of the time.

Profits

PROFITS of wheat exporters last year averaged a third of a cent a bushel, compared with 8 cents the year before. This is reported to the Senate by the Federal Trade Commission. At this rate, exporters' total profits on our huge shipments of wheat to other countries in 1921 were only $1,185,170. Yet wheat exports last year were nearly four and a half times as big as the five-year average, 1910-1914. We are in a period of a big physical volume of business and small profits. That is the general business situation in a nutshell.

Too many people are wishing their marriage licenses would expire.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
The new Onalaska State Bank is now completed and will open for business May 27.

Frank Larkin, 413 Caledonia street, and Miss Blanche Hardy of 1610 George street were married at Winona yesterday by Rev. Williamson. Mr. Larkin is a popular conductor on the Milwaukee road.

Twenty-four pupils of the La Crosse County Agricultural school will be graduated from that institution this year. Commencement exercises will be held June 1. Dr. Robert B. Condon of La Crosse will give the baccalaureate address. J. L. Pettigill, president of the county school board will present the diplomas.

Dairy butter is quoted at twenty-three cents on the local market today while creamery butter sells at twenty-seven cents. Eggs are marked at seventeen cents per dozen for firsts and thirteen cents for seconds.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Schick and Roth are making plans for a large cooper shop for the La Crosse Cooperage company. The building will be 50x100 feet and will be of stone and brick. It will be erected just southeast of the Gund Brewing company.

The annual re-union of the La Crosse County Old Settlers' Association will be held on the county fair grounds at West Salem tomorrow. La Crosse will send a large delegation on the morning train.

Woolley and Hanson were heavy losers as a result of Tuesday night's storm. Their slides on Grand blue which cost close to $2,000 were torn to pieces and the sieve of the stone crusher was torn away and wrecked.

The Free Thinkers' association of Bostwick Valley will hold its annual picnic next Sunday in the hall near Barro Mills. Many people from La Crosse will attend.

Equipment for the new Lutheran hospital has arrived and will be installed at once.
The endowment fund of the La Crosse public library has been increased $20,000 by a donation from the estate of the late C. L. Colman. This increases the fund to $50,000 and places the library on a very substantial footing. Mr. Colman was a trustee of the institution up to the time of his death.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Moore of Onalaska have started on a trip to the state of Maine to visit at Mr. Moore's old home.

All railroads are taking extra precautions just now and track-walkers are employed to keep a careful watch on bridges, culverts and all places where a washout might occur. The river is high and railroads do not want to take any chances.

Ladies of the Cemetery Association in Onalaska are engaged in arranging for a May Festival for the purpose of raising funds for the expenses of observing Memorial day. The May Queen is to be selected by balloting which is now going on every evening. So far Blanche Pooler is ahead with 446 votes; Hattie Pooler is next with 324 votes and Nell Thayer third with 257 votes. There are about twenty entered in the contest.

Deputy Revenue Collector W. G. Dye of Winona is evidently expecting a high water calamity, for he has written a letter to Deputy Revenue Collector W. S. Holmes of this city in which he says, "Get your grab hook ready and when our government building comes floating down your way, be ready to catch it."

A Case To Investigate

BY JANE OSBORN

When Laura Stanhope was engaged as assistant to the matron of the Stowe Children's Home it was understood that she should have charge of what the managers called the home "field work." This consisted of regular visits to the homes of children recommended for the home, and the watching of children who had once been cared for by the home, but had later been taken back by their parents or relatives. Laura Stanhope lived at the Stowe home and, when not engaged on such errands, she was expected to see that the cook did not pare the potatoes too thick, that visitors did not give the children too much candy, to help with the mending, take a hand in the pantry when needed and otherwise put in about fourteen hours of usefulness a day.

"Here's a job for you," said the matron to Laura one chill winter day when the snow was in the air. "Some of the lady managers have been concerned over an advertisement that has been running in the 'Home News' for the last two or three nights. They think maybe there are children there that ought to be brought to the home. Suppose you put on your things and take the next trolley out to Thompson's road and try to find the place. Here's the advertisement—it was in the 'Female Help Wanted.' It's probably some dilapidated farm house out in the Old Orchard section. Don't go inside, but get as good an idea as you can of the people from outside."

Jane did not read the advertisement until after she was aboard the trolley that went out Thompson's road. Then she unfolded the bit of paper and read: "Wanted a nice lady to come and be mother to two little girls. We're dreadful lonesome. Don't come unless you can read stories out of the fairy book. Please come to stay always. Thompson's road and Maple lane, R. F. D. 17."

Laura got off the trolley at Orchard lane. That was easy. It was also easy to find a letter box a few hundred feet up Orchard lane, marked 17. The difficulty lay in the fact that the post to which this letterbox was attached stood in front of a splendid old Colonial mansion, set far back from the road, kept in splendid repair and surrounded by spreading lawns and groves of trees that showed every sign of constant care.

The only thing for Laura to do was to go to the front door of the house and ask whoever came to the door if he or she knew anything of the sender of the advertisement. However, she was scared the necessity of raising the well polished old brass knocker on the ponderous white front door. A well clad child of eight or ten playing before the house stopped her.

"Did you come to be our mother?" she asked, looking Laura over with searching, young eyes.

"Not exactly," said Laura. "But I did see your advertisement and I came to see you and to talk with you. Do you live here—in this big house?"

"Yes," said the child, "but don't let's go in. Let's talk outside, because—well, you see no one in there knows about it, and I don't want them to know until you have come for good to be our really and truly mamma. Joanne—that's my sister—doesn't know either. It's going to be a surprise to her."

"But you, you have everything you want," suggested Laura, putting a reassuring arm on the child's shoulder. "You ought to be very happy. You haven't any—any mother?"
"No," said the child, shaking her head vigorously. "There's just us and Jumbo—that's the dog—and Moses—he's the colored man—and Jaunmy the cook and Olive that takes care of us and Uncle Fred. Olive won't mind—really she won't. She wants to leave anyway and anyway she just puts us to bed and gives us our baths and sews buttons on. She doesn't read the fairy story book or kiss us or anything like that."

The child seemed wound up for a much longer explanation, but she came to a sudden stop. A youngish middle-aged man, of rather stern expression, had come out of the house. As he came down the steps the child whispered:

"That's Uncle Fred. He doesn't know. Don't tell please. I want to wait until it's all arranged."

"Is there something I can do for you?" asked Uncle Fred, looking as appraisingly at Laura as had the little girl when she first arrived.

"I was only—only trying to find my way," said Laura, a little confused. "You see I wanted to take the trolley and—and I wondered how often they went by, going to town."

"The man looked at his watch. 'They only every hour. You've just missed it. The siding is right near here and the up and down cars have just passed each other there.'"

It was not a surprising thing and quite in accord with the spirit of the country when Uncle Fred suggested that Laura take a seat in his car to go back to town. "I'm going in in five or ten minutes. You would have time that way. Won't you come in and warm yourself?"

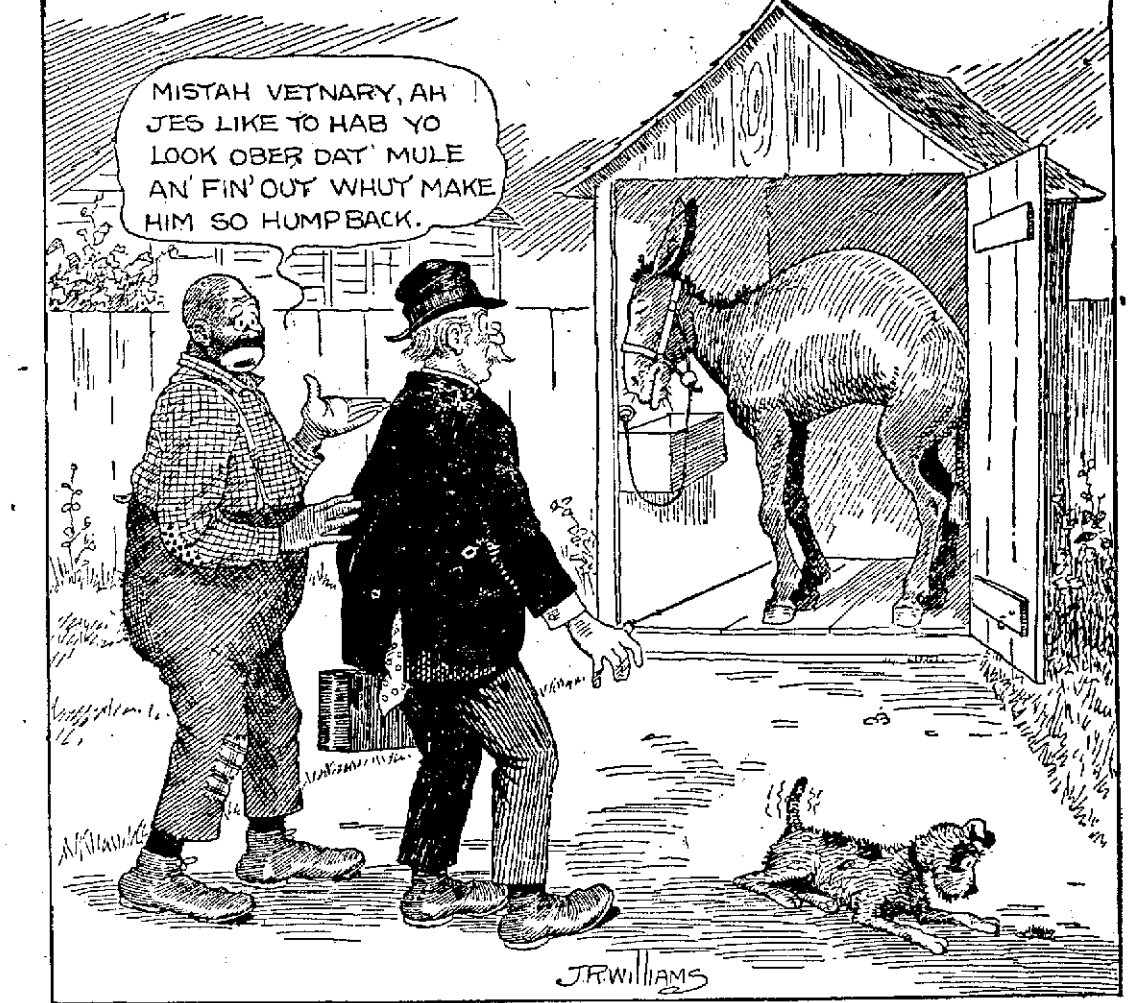

Laura remembered the matron's injunction not to go in the house. But nothing had been said about waiting with a stranger. That thought, Laura would have a good opportunity to find out something more about the case she had to investigate, she was very cold, but she said: "Thank you, I would rather wait out here."

"As you wish," said the stranger, and, to Laura's disappointment, he led the little girl by the hand as he went indoors. In less than five minutes he appeared in a large touring car coming around the driveway. He alighted to help Laura in.

"You will need this," he said, holding up an enormous ulster for Laura. "Will you sit in the back seat or in front?" Laura chose the front seat. It would give her an opportunity to carry on her investigation.

OUT OUR WAY

IT COST WASH FUNK THREE DOLLARS TO FIND OUT WHAT MADE HIS MULE SO HUMPBACKED.

Before they had gone a mile Uncle Fred introduced himself as F. D. Graves, and Laura recalled the name as that of one of the liberal subscribers to the home. He told her of his errand to town, Olive, the nurse for his two orphan nieces, had given notice. He was going to town to try and get some one to take her place.

"But they are getting too old for a nurse," he said. "What I want is an educated young woman who can act as governess. I don't know exactly how to go about it."

"Do you ever see the 'Home News'?" suggested Laura. "You might find an advertisement there or you might insert one in the help wanted column."

But Fred Graves politely scoffed at this idea. He never read that paper, he said. It was full of foolish local gossip that didn't interest him. At least, thought Laura, there was no danger but he had seen his little niece's advertisement. It would have grieved him to know that she was so lonely. Laura did not want to explain her own identity, but when Mr. Graves asked her where he should leave her she had to say the Children's Home, and this meant an explanation of her connection with it.

"Would you permit me to stop at the home to see you?" asked Mr. Graves as they neared the home. "If I am unsuccessful in finding a governess I may come to you for advice."

Back again in the routine of the work at the home, Laura thought of nothing but her adventure. She explained the situation to the matron, begging her not to let the "lady managers" know that it had been the niece of Mr. F. D. Graves who had inserted the advertisement. That afternoon Laura went to the office of the "Home News" and requested them to discontinue the advertisement. This they did, although a dollar bill had been sent with the childish scrawl and this would have paid for the advertisement for a few days more.

When Laura returned, Mr. Graves was waiting for her in the bare reception room of the children's home. Before he had left he had asked her if she would come as governess to his nieces and she had accepted.

Within a month she had made her adieu at the home and was very comfortably established in her new position. Every one agreed that it was a splendid place for a motherless girl like Laura. Consternation reigned, however, when a few months later Laura was married to Mr. F. D. Graves. There was just one secret that Laura always kept from her husband—and that was why she happened to be trespassing on his front lawn that cold winter day when he first met her.

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

THE FLAPPER PARADE
BY BERTON BRALEY
Each one wears a round little hat, With a bit of tilt to the brim. Low oxfords with heels that are flat. A scarf with much colorful vim. They're garbed in identical style— You'll meet them parading the pike. For mile after mile after mile, And all exactly alike.

The same kind of hob to their hair, The same kind of rouge on their lips, The same semi-negligent air. Of standing with hands on their hips. They walk with the same sort of a walk (A cross 'twixt a lope and a hike), They chatter the same sort of talk, They all act exactly alike!

They all show the same brand of pep And use the same species of slang. They dance with a similar step, And run with a similar gang. They're snappy and laughing and dapper. But there is no doubt we must start To number each up-to-date flapper In order to tell 'em apart! (Copyright, 1922, NEA Service.)

DEMAND FOR HOME-GOODS INCREASES COMMUNITY VALUE

First Boys Prize in Essay Contest Goes to Norman Hale of High School

Norman Hale, a high school student, is the winner of the first prize offered boys in the essay contest featuring Made-in-La Crosse week. His essay on "Why Buy La Crosse Made Products" follows:

"From the economic standpoint, there is nothing so valuable to the individual as to buy products made in his own community. In the first place, the economic value of a man is equal to his production minus his consumption. By creating a demand for home-made products an increase in production is brought about, and thus the value to the community is increased. The money exchanged for the product does not, however, leave the community, but it remains to increase the prosperity and exert its beneficial power in bettering the city. For example, when a man buys La Crosse-made shoes, the money which he pays for them does not leave the community, but remains in circulation in this locality and by its circulation at home increases the prosperity of the city.

"Since the individual is directly influenced by his environment, the improvement of the community through the construction of more durable and beautiful buildings, roads, etc., will be an incentive for him to live up to the standard set by his community.

"Then, too, a better quality of goods can be secured through home industries. Since the industry does not have to take the costs of transportation into consideration, it can produce an article of a higher quality than an outside factory can for the same price. And the people demand a better article from a home industry than from an outside one, for they have the opportunity of observing the whole process of manufacture, from raw material to finished product. The goods are in turn undamaged by any storage or transportation, and this increases their economic value.

"And last, for convenience's sake, if for no other, a home market should be supplied for La Crosse-made products. There is no unnecessary delay in ordering or in receiving the goods; no freight rates or storage costs must be paid; the volume of mail is greatly reduced; and congestion at centers of transportation, such as freight depots, is lessened. Instead of sending a letter, waiting two or three days for the reply and waiting a week for the shipment, and then having to go through the process of handling, books and long payment, a visit to the factory or even a telephone call is all that is needed. Within a few hours the product is at your disposal, delivered with practically no waste of time and very little expense. Since the expense of transportation and the rise in price due to a middleman is avoided, a home industry naturally has a better basis for competition than an outside industry. Finally, the community may be made or broken by the attitude of its citizens, and with a feeling of civic pride no loyal citizen of La Crosse should even offer to buy out-of-town products when he may more economically secure the same things manufactured at home. Only by placing his own city ahead of others may a great amount of remuneration be secured by the individual. It is absolutely necessary for the growth and development of the city that the products of its industries be bought by its own citizens, so we must make La Crosse the best in the state. Get busy."

HUNGARIAN GYPSIES ORGANIZE TO DRIVE OUT JAZZ PARTIES

BUDAPEST.—War has broken out between the Gypsy musicians of Hungary and the negro jazz band artists, many of whom are Americans. The Gypsies, who have furnished Hungary its music, ballads, laughter for a thousand years, assert that the jazz instrumentalists are invading their precincts, and have organized to drive them out.

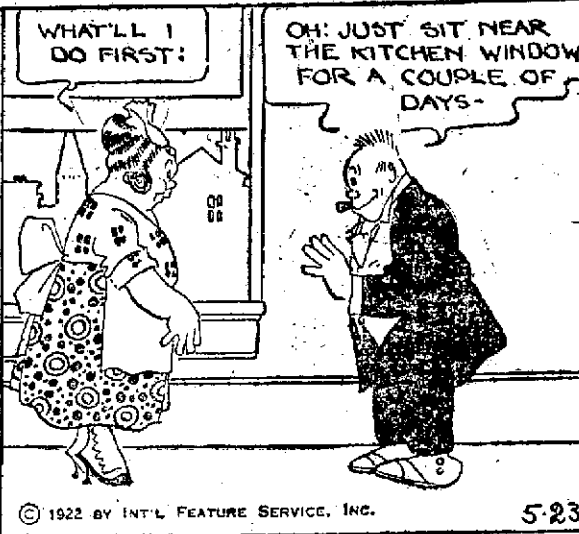

The Hungarian Guild of Jazz Band Artists, whose leader is a Mississippi negro, has accepted the challenge of the Gypsies and says it will fight to the last ditch.

WHY DOCTORS ORDER TURNIPS

With a better and clearer understanding of the principles of hygienic diet which requires a supply of fresh vegetables the year around, the turnip, formerly almost exclusively grown as a fall and winter crop, now takes an important place as an early summer vegetable and is sown in the spring with other early vegetables instead of as a follow crop exclusively, to be put in during July, usually as a succession to peas or early string beans.

The young and tender turnips, harvested when they have reached the size of about two inches in diameter, form a delicate and tempting dish; much more delicate in flavor than when they have reached full maturity and with no chance for them to be pithy or woody.

The turnips do not like hot weather or any more than do their close relatives, the radishes, and the seed should be put in the ground about the same time as the radishes. They stand considerable frost without harm. By an early planting, a crop of young turnips will be ready for the table by the time the follow crop for fall consumption or for winter storage is ready to be planted.

For tenderness, they require good cultivation and to be kept going at top speed for the early crop. The later crop does not require the same attention as the plants grow more slowly and attain greater size. They will be hastened, however, with care.

ful cultivation in order to conserve the moisture in the soil. During long dry spells, the young plants remain practically at a standstill and make the bulk of their growth during the cooler days of fall.

The turnip, like the cabbage, demands rich soil for its best development. Include some of the newer and finer types of turnip in your early planting plan. They will be very acceptable just as the earlier vegetables are on the wane and furnish a transition between the early and midsummer crops.

MOTORIZED HEALTH CENTER ENDS WORK IN GRANT COUNTY

MADISON, Wis.—The Child Welfare Special, bringing modern instruction in child hygiene to mothers in rural districts where child health centers are unknown, is beginning the last week of its Grant county tour. The May itineraries will end Saturday at Boscobel.

Owing to impassable roads the high rolling clinic was forced to omit Cassville and North Audover last week. These towns in the extreme western part of Grant county, near the Mississippi river, are the only communities thus far to be deprived of its scheduled visits. Heavy rains and dirt roads not yet improved became a handicap that, owing to the car's fixed schedule, could not be overcome.

Towns on this week's route are Bloomington, Bagley, Patch Grove, Mt. Hope, Fennimore and Boscobel. In every town the opportunity to profit by the skilled advice offered and the facilities of the Special has been welcomed by large groups of mothers. This contribution by the state towards a healthier generation has given many mothers a widened outlook in the direction of sturdier boys and girls, according to the testimony of members of the staff following daily interviews with parents.

On June 12 the car will begin a days' tour among towns in Sheboygan county.

MOZART CIGAR

Mild as a May Morning—and as fragrant

Many men demand "something mild." Mozart is made for them. Its tobaccos were selected and cured to be mild.

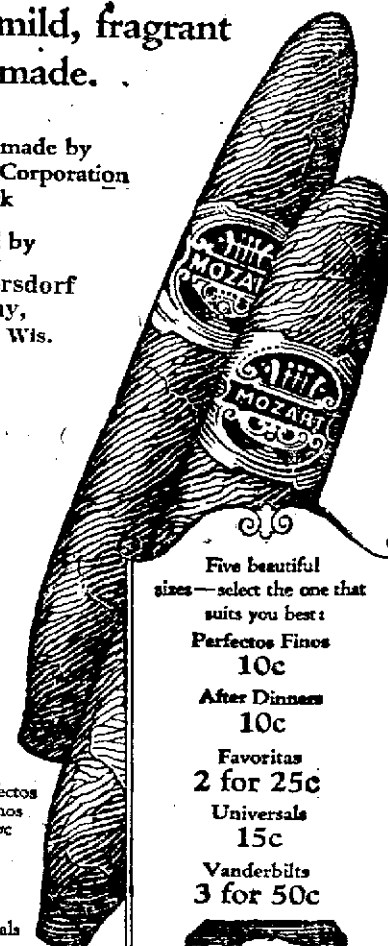

These same men like fragrance, however. Finest Havana gives fragrance to Mozart.

An uncommonly mild, fragrant cigar—beautifully made.

PRESBYTERIANS TO CONSOLIDATE ALL BOARDS OF CHURCH

Four Boards to be Organized to Do the Work Now Assumed by Sixteen

VOTE NOT TO TAKE THE WORD CATHOLIC OUT OF CREED

Assembly Declines Federation With Southern Church

DES MOINES.—A report for consolidation of the boards and agencies of the Presbyterian church in the United States, regarded as the most important of the session, was adopted Monday in its main portion under the leadership of Dr. John Timothy Stone of Chicago, chairman of the committee, who presented the report.

When the decision was announced that the vote was affirmative in favor of the consolidation and reorganization, the assembly went wild. It was considered a notable victory for Dr. Stone and forecasts one of the most far-reaching changes in the church in its history.

Report to Hold, Belief

Certain details will be subject to further debate and the portion of the report calling for a general council, which calls for a change in the law of the church, will be submitted to the presbytery, as the law of the church is the law of the presbytery, but the main content of the committee was carried and it is believed all else will be in consequence follow.

There are now sixteen boards and organizations in the church. The new plan calls for their consolidation into four boards with many of the boards and agencies now existing classified as departments.

The four boards which will include the missionary boards of the women, will be the following:

The board of foreign missions, the national board of missions, the board of Christian education, and the board of ministerial relief and sustenance. Every existing board and agency will find its place in one of these four.

Important Assembly Votes

Other important decisions of the general assembly during the day were as follows:

It voted against taking the word "Catholic" out of the apostles' creed and substitute for it the word "Christian."

It declined to act favorably on the creature asking that the general assembly "repudiate and disavow, so far as the Presbyterian church in the United States is concerned, the oft-repeated claim of the federal council of churches to speak the sentiments of 30,000,000 Protestants, especially in international questions in those dealing with the relations between capital and labor in neither of which there is any unanimity or consensus of opinion in the membership of our churches."

Declines Unity With South

It declined to enter into a mere federation with the other branches of the Presbyterian church in the United States, the southern branch.

It refused to appoint a commission to present plans for the reduction of the size of this general assembly by one-half.

It voted to continue cooperation and support of the federal council of the Churches of Christ in America, the conference on world faith and order and on a world conference on Christian life and work. It adopted a report of this committee on ministerial relief and sustenance urging that the endowment of $10,000,000 not being gathered be hastened to completion and that a layman's movement be organized in its behalf.

Insists on Whole Bible

It passed the following resolution in answer to those who wanted this general assembly to define its attitude toward the use of books which abbreviate or rearrange the Bible:

"Pastors and teachers are urged to make it plain that excerpts from the Bible, while legitimate and often desirable, are merely parts of one revelation, needing all the other parts for their full meaning."

"This church maintains no index of foreign books, but wishes its people to have free access to all knowledge of and about the Bible. Its concern is solely to maintain the full knowledge of the whole word of God."

SACRAMENTO TAKES ON LIKENESS OF A '49ER MINING CAMP

Men Grow Beards for Celebration, and all Adopt Dress of Seventy Years Ago

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—This city had recovered Tuesday to a big mining camp of the gold days of '49, whose romance is bound in the volumes of Elmer Hart, Mark Twain and others, lives in the memory of a few white bearded pioneers, and is implanted for all time in American folk lore.

The days of '49 celebration, opening Tuesday, is perhaps the most spectacular of its kind, for practically every citizen of Sacramento has had a part in it. Every adult male has been growing a beard for several weeks and has prepared a costume of the period. The result has been a vast of thousands for the historical portrayal.

Every store front was painted to fit historically. In the '49 camp and every man who ordinarily wears a short, was attired in dainty dresses which reached to the ground.

STATELY RECEPTION HELD AT THE HOME OF MRS. GANTERT

DOMINATING THE spring festivities, the spacious old home of Mrs. Stephen Gantert, 1302 Main street, was the scene on Tuesday of one of the largest and altogether most charming social functions ever held in the city. It was given by the members of the Catholic Woman's League. In the receiving line were Mrs. Gantert and her daughter, Mrs. William Schuster, and the officers of the club: Mrs. E. G. Perkins, president; Miss Cora Desmond, first vice-president; Miss Josephine Koenig, second vice-president; Miss Mary Downs, recording secretary; Miss Helen Koller, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Bonadurer, treasurer, and Miss Josephine Kohn, auditor.

The receiving hours were from three to six o'clock in the afternoon and from eight to ten in the evening. A large number of guests leaving cards during those hours. The great rooms of this handsome residence were gay with masses of spring blossoms, large urns of the bridal wreath spirea with other flowers contributing daintily to its embellishment. Two dining rooms were used for the serving, pink featuring the coloring of one, while yellow was carried out in the other. Both tables were centered by silver baskets, one being filled with pink sweet peas, and the other yellow iris. The candle sticks were also silver, the tapers being in harmony with the tints of the floral baskets.

Tea and coffee were served. Alternating in presiding at the afternoon tables were Mrs. R. R. Schaefer, Mrs. Michael Hayes, Mrs. Bernard O'Connell, Mrs. J. G. Gantert, Mrs. G. J. Egan, Mrs. D. W. Mac-William, Mrs. B. H. Volz, and Mrs. William Rossiter; these ladies were assisted by Miss Mary Spittel, Mrs. Clarence Ford, Mrs. W. Wolfe, Mrs. W. Fries and Mrs. L. S. Hamacher. In the evening the ladies alternating at the tables were Mrs. Edward Evans, Mrs. F. Albert Gantert, Mrs. Albert Funk, Mrs. W. A. Henke, Mrs. August Grams, Mrs. George Young and Mrs. C. J. Ross. Assisting these ladies were Mrs. John Doherty, Mrs. Paul Lutz, Mrs. Allan McCord, Mrs. F. A. Reiman and Miss Eleanor Funk. Miss Funk was in charge of both dining rooms. At the door were the little Misses Margaret Gantert, and Mrs. Anne Gantert, Louise Ross, Helen Weisenberger, Katherine and Dorothy Gantert, who alternated in attending. Three-hundred and fifty invitations were issued.

THE REGULAR monthly business meeting of the La Crosse Business Woman's club was held Monday night at the parlors of the Y. W. C. A.

Preceding the business session as is usual, a delicious dinner was served, about thirty members being in attendance. Following, routine business of the club was taken up. One of the delightful features of the evening was the report given by the president, Miss Carrie Marsh, of the meeting of the State Federation of Women's clubs, held at Baraboo, which she attended as delegate from the local organization. Miss Marsh gave a well rounded report of the convention, which was one of unusual interest and most entertaining. A good representation of the state's clubs was present. So realistic was her presentation of the convention activities that the members of the club in attendance Monday night had more than a passing glance. She seemingly brought the very best of the program back to the home club and imparted it in a most vivid manner. The state organization was entertained royally by the Baraboo people. Among the important business of the evening was voting on the constitution, article by article, which was unanimously adopted.

THE Y. W. C. A. announces a moonlight excursion to be given on the steamer Washington Friday evening, June 2, at 8 o'clock. Proceeds will be used to pay expenses of La Crosse girls to the summer conferences at Lake Geneva and Dewey Lake. Older girls will attend the Geneva conference, while Girl Reserves will go to Dewey.

GENEVIEVE, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Solberg, 127 South Ninth street, celebrated her ninth birthday by inviting nine of her friends to enjoy the pleasure of the day. The afternoon was a merry one with games and at 5 o'clock supper was served. A birthday cake aflame with nine tapers featured the table. Dainty baskets filled with confections were the favors. The birthday child was showered with pretty gifts. The guests were the little Misses Marguerite Hutton, Dorothy Wheaton, Winifred Packman, Peggy MacDonald, Janet Dana, Nora Thornton, Marjorie Sjoland, Marion Louise Toffe and Bernice Callaway.

MISS ESTELLE SCHOLBERG of Timber Lake, S. D., is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Scholberg.

SUMMER BEAUTY HINT

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair, that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of cantrox (which you can get at any drugist's), in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After cantrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.

SUMMER BEAUTY HINT

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair, that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of cantrox (which you can get at any drugist's), in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After cantrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.

102 MISSING FROM BRITISH STEAMSHIP SUNK IN COLLISION

Sixteen Passengers and 86
Members of the Crew on List of Missing

RESCUE WORK HAMPERED BY THE HEAVY FOG SAY SURVIVORS

Twenty-eight Passengers and 204 Seamen Were Saved

BREST, France.—By the Associated Press.—The British vice consul here Tuesday announced that 102 of those who were on board the British steamship Egypt, sunk off the island of Ashant, Saturday night, are missing, of whom sixteen were passengers and 86 members of the crew. Twenty-eight passengers were saved, together with 204 members of the crew. Mrs. M. L. Sibley and Miss V. M. Boyer, American missionaries, are among those missing and presumably lost.

Many of the dead brought in by boats were wearing lifebelts, they evidently died from exhaustion.

Accounts of the disaster given by survivors and the captain's reports indicate that the loss of life would have been much smaller had not the fog been so thick as to hamper the rescuers. Sailors on the French steamer declare they observed several struggles between survivors for places of safety on pieces of wreckage.

The survivors' accounts indicate that everything possible was done by the officers and crews of the two vessels to prevent loss of life, except in the cases of a few Indian seamen who lost their heads and fought for life belts and places in the boats.

A nun, Sister Rhoda, whose name in private life was Miss E. R. McNeill, refused to take a place offered her in a boat, saying: "Give it to another." She was last seen kneeling in prayer on the deck.

There is some comment among navigators as to what might have happened had the 1914 international radio agreement been signed by France. This agreement provides that coastwise and small sea-going craft be equipped with wireless receiving apparatus. It is believed here that if a number of small vessels near the scene of the disaster had been so equipped they would have picked up the Egypt's distress signals and taken part in the rescue. It is also recalled that prize of $20,000 offered by relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Pollock, Americans, who were victims of a similar disaster in 1898, for the invention of a system to prevent such disasters has never been awarded.

small enamel pitcher and a small tin can in the rinsing sink back of the soft-drink bar, as he was passing through a swinging gate that separates the drinking bar from that part of the bar now being used as a lunch counter. Robert Schnell, one of J. Priscy Buddle's deputies, testified that he saw Hammond going through the motions of pouring out a liquid under the bar. Both Hammond's asserted that no liquid was poured out or secreted while the search was being made.

Buddle and Schnell went to the basement of the restaurant building and drew all the water out of the trap in the drain pipe, after the alleged pouring of the fluid into the drain had taken place.

The liquid taken from the trap was sent to H. M. Lambert, state chemist at Madison for chemical analysis. Lambert testified Monday that one bottle of the liquid showed .38 per cent alcohol and the other sample .44 per cent.

Mysterious "Bum" Blamed

Albert C. Wolfe, attorney for the Hammond brothers in both cases, in his opening remarks to the jury announced that the defense would show that a short time before the prohibition deputies entered the restaurant, a "bum" who had eaten a meal in the luncheon had left a bottle of moonshine on the table and that this was emptied into the drain and that there was no other alcohol or moonshine in the place except that which had been brought into the restaurant by the unidentified "bum" and which had been thrown away.

Ed Hupshald, in charge of the luncheon when the "bum" left the bottle of moonshine on the table, and who was being relieved of duty by William Hammond when the deputies arrived, testified that he emptied the bottle of moonshine, left by the alleged "bum" into the drain.

The jury in the William Hammond case was composed of Elsie Coleman, Effie McKinley, Joseph Johns, Joseph F. Bartt, Hugo H. Hickisch, W. R. Johnson, Helma Skogan, Emma Linse, Clyde McHugh, Alexander Ambrosius and Carl Haas. Mr. Bartt was foreman.

BADGER LABOR FEDERATION MEETS AT OSHKOSH

OSHKOSH, Wis.—While it has been announced that nothing in the line of politics will be discussed, the annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor to be held at Oshkosh from July 18 to 22, inclusive, will undoubtedly consider many matters of state and national importance to the workers. The program is now being arranged and promises to be elaborate. Several hundred delegates will attend. Numerous social features are scheduled, including boat rides, auto tours, a banquet and an athletic tournament. A public mass meeting will be a part of the event. Milwaukee will be largely represented. The state secretary, J. J. Hanley, resides at Milwaukee, and is arranging state features.

FORD FOR PRESIDENT CLUB TO BE FORMED IN DETROIT TONIGHT

Would Bring Automobile Manufacturer Forward as Independent Candidate

DETROIT, Mich.—A public mass meeting to organize a "Henry Ford for President" club will be held Tuesday night in Dearborn, Detroit suburb and the home of the automobile manufacturer.

The basic idea back of the meeting, it was said, by leaders in the movement, is to bring about the candidacy of Mr. Ford on an independent ticket at the next general election.

Tentative plans for the meeting were announced by a group of Mr. Ford's fellow townsmen. Boosters announcing the meeting appeared in public places at Dearborn today.

At the offices of Mr. Ford in Dearborn, knowledge of the meeting other than that the posters had been observed was denied.

LEIGHT OF WAUSAU NAMED COUNTY JUDGE OF MARATHON COUNTY

MADISON, Wis.—George J. Leight, Wausau, district attorney of Marathon county, was appointed judge of that county Tuesday by Governor J. J. Blaine to succeed Franklin E. Bump, recently named as assistant attorney general by Attorney General William J. Morgan. The appointment of Mr. Leight is for the balance of the unexpired term of Judge Bump, or until his successor is elected and qualified.

MRS. MARGARETHEA VIS
Margaretha Hevcke Vis, who resided at 1309 Pine street, died at her home at 8:30 p. m. May 20, 1922, as a result of paralytic stroke April 19th.

She was born February 26, 1836 at Wormerveer, Holland. On April 22, 1860, she was united in marriage to Cornelius Vis and together they came to America, July 1870, settling at Roxbury, Mass.

In the year 1875 Mrs. Vis with her husband and family moved west making their home at New Amsterdam, Wis., La Crosse, Minn., and La Crosse, Wis.

The deceased leaves to mourn her departure, four children: Mrs. John Vis, Lanesboro, Minn.; Mrs. D. J. De Tene, Van Hook, N. D.; Mrs. F. R. Anderson, 1707 Market street, and Anna Vis, 1309 Pine St. La Crosse. Also leaves 12 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted from the residence Monday at 2 p. m. by Rev. Grover C. Ralston of the West Ave. M. E. Church and interment at La Crosse cemetery.

BATHING BEACHES IN MILWAUKEE POLLUTED

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—All of Milwaukee's bathing beaches are polluted by sewage to an extent that possibly makes their use a menace to the health of bathers, according to resolutions adopted by the Milwaukee sewerage commission.

The mayor and city council will be asked to take action to remedy the conditions that exist at the bathing beaches along the lake shore. These conditions add to the pollution of the city's water supply, it is charged.

SIGHT OF BLOOD BRINGS DEATH TO MT. HOREB YOUTH

Succumbs With Heart Failure
When Confronted With Man
Covered With Blood

MADISON, Wis.—The unexpected sight of a man covered with blood brought sudden death to Russell Pierce, 17, when on an automobile pleasure trip late Sunday afternoon.

The Pierce family was returning to their home in Mount Horeb when they saw an automobile in the ditch. Thinking there had been an accident the father, August Pierce, who was driving the car, pulled up back of the car in the ditch. The Pierce family, including Russell, his mother and sister, got out of their car to be suddenly confronted by a man covered with blood.

"Oh, mamma!" exclaimed Russell, throwing up his arms and then he fell to the ground dead as a result of heart failure.

Investigation disclosed that the man covered with blood had been in a fight with a companion.

FINGER PRINTS SHOW CRIME RECORDS OF N. Y. POSTAL WORKERS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Discovery through "Finger Printing" that forty-nine of the 460 employees of the registry division of the New York post office had criminal records, was reported to President Harding Tuesday by Acting Postmaster General Bartlett upon his return from an investigation of the New York. All of the 49 have been dropped from the service. Mr. Bartlett said.

NEW JERSEY SENATOR OPPOSES BORAH PLAN TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET

Would Mean Tearing Down all that Christianity Has Accomplished, Says Edge

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Recognition by the United States of the Russian soviet regime would be tantamount to tearing down by one act "all that Christianity has accomplished in 2,000 years," Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, declared in the senate Tuesday, in opposing the Russian recognition resolution recently offered by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho.

The New Jersey senator said he believed the American public favored a continuation of the government's isolation with respect to the soviet and added that "anyhow it is no business of the senate to initiate such a program."

Senator Borah, replying in a brief address, said there had been such "constant and persistent propaganda of misrepresentation in regard to Russia," that he was not surprised that there was a general misunderstanding in the United States as to the present government. Noting that fourteen nations now were doing business in Russia and had diplomatic missions in that country, the Idaho senator asserted that "the communists in Russia were very limited at this time and by no means what they were a few years ago."

DISAPPEARANCE OF HIGH SCHOOL BOYS MYSTIFIES POLICE

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis.—Disappearance of two high school students of Wisconsin Rapids within the past two weeks, has mystified the local police, who have asked officials of all cities in the state to aid them in their search for the missing boys. The second boy to disappear from home was Louis Zabawa, 17, senior in high school, who left early last Wednesday morning and has not been found. His parents believe that worry over his studies coupled with the fact that he believed he would not graduate in June, prompted him to leave.

No trace has as yet been found of Orville Schultz, 16, also a high school student, who left in company with two girl students who were located in Lansing, Mich. Schultz disappeared May 13.

HARDING COMMUTES SENTENCES OF THREE WAR-TIME OFFENDERS

WASHINGTON.—Announcement was made Tuesday by the department of justice that President Harding had commuted the sentences of J. G. Gordon, Albert W. Wehde and George P. Boehm, all of Chicago, convicted of war-time offenses. The commutation in each case is effective at once.

All three had expressed a proper appreciation of the laws of the land, the department said, in announcing the commutations.

Gordon was one of the ninety-seven persons convicted in Chicago in August 1918, for their I. W. W. activities and was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and a $20,000 fine. The fine has not been paid and becomes void by commutation.

Wehde and Boehm were convicted in October 1917 for conspiring to foment revolution and uprising in India against England, a friendly power. They received a sentence of three years and fined $13,000 each, the latter of which has not been carried out and becomes void with the commutation.

MAN ASKING PARDON IS IDENTIFIED AS THE PINGATORE SLAYER

Witness Says Carlson, Convicted as Accessory, Fired Shot Which Killed Officer

KENOSHA, Wis.—A sensation was sprung here at the hearing before Judge Max W. Heck of Racine, named by Governor Blaine to take evidence on an appeal for a pardon for Carl O. Carlson, now serving the life term in the state prison after he had pleaded guilty as an accessory to the killing of Police Officer Tony Pingatore here, when Gunnard Hansen, a witness of the murder of Pingatore declared that it was Carlson who fired the shot which killed the police officer.

Earl Loveday, another member of a trio of bandits which came from Chicago to rob the vaults of the American Brass company, and who secured $60,000 in loot, confessed to the murder and is now serving a life term.

The declaration of Hanson put a stop to the proceedings pending investigation for the support of his story. Police officers declared previously to the arrest of Loveday, Hanson had identified another man as the slayer of Pingatore.

WOMAN PHYSICIAN COMING INTO HER OWN DECLARES SPEAKER

Says Sex Limitations Will Vanish Within a Few Years

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The resolution presented Monday to the house of delegates of the American Medical Association, appealing to congress for relief from the "present unsatisfactory conditions," as to the distribution of whiskey for medical purposes only, in sealed packages of eight, sixteen, and thirty-two ounces.

Sex limitations in the medical profession will vanish in a few years and the time is coming when every community will recognize the need of women physicians, according to Dr. Grace Kimball, president-elect of the Medical Women's National association, one of a group of medical organizations meeting here in connection of the American Medical association.

Dr. Kimball said: "Today it takes about twice as much ability and industry for a woman to gain recognition as for a man, but all that is changing, and in the future, I believe women will prefer a woman physician to a man. Given the same scientific background, the balance will be in favor of the woman physician."

Nine out of every 1,000 babies in America die before reaching the first year, chiefly because of impure milk. Dr. W. F. Watton, Brooklyn, N. Y., stated before a joint meeting of the American Medical Association milk commissioners and the certified milk producers association of America.

Dr. Watton said that 51 per cent of all cases of tuberculosis was traceable to impure milk, and he recommended a campaign for elimination of tubercular cows and diseased dairymen.

EMPLOYMENT IN STATE REPORTED ON THE INCREASE

MADISON, Wis.—The past month has been one of increased employment throughout Wisconsin, with the few decreases in the number of workmen largely in seasonal industries, the industrial commission reported Tuesday in its monthly survey of labor conditions.

Compared with the report of the previous month, the commission summary showed that the number of employees in agriculture increased 2.5 per cent, manufacturing 1.9 per cent, building construction 32.2 per cent, highway construction 89.9 per cent, wholesale trade 5.2 per cent and retail trade 3.5 per cent. In manufacturing the metal industries showed the greatest pick-up, especially automobile manufacturing.

Industries that showed important decreases in the number of workers were logging, woodworking, rubber, paper box and other paper manufacturing, textiles, light and power, and the railroads in all branches, the declines being seasonal for the most part.

As compared with January of this year, agriculture shows a gain of 42.4 per cent in employees, mining 21.4 per cent, manufacturing 7.5 per cent, building 47.2 per cent, wholesale trade 12.2 per cent and retail trade 1.6 per cent. The few industries showing a considerably smaller number of employees as compared with January are: Rubber, leather, textiles and meat packing.

The commission report shows that when compared with the first quarter of 1915, the number of factory workers is 1.9 per cent greater, the total payroll 93.1 per cent larger and the average weekly earnings $9.5 per cent higher. The factories now, however, are employing 28.8 per cent fewer workers than in July, 1920, with the payroll 45.5 per cent less and the average weekly earnings 23.2 per cent smaller.

Since the peak of high prices in July 1920 there has been a decline in the cost of living of 24.3 per cent, according to the commission report. Compared with July 1914 the cost of living is still 54.8 per cent higher.

YOUR BABY IN HOT WEATHER

IF YOU MUST WEAN BABY DO IT CAREFULLY

Six Months Old and Perfectly Happy

BY MRS. MAX WEST
(Late of the United States Children's Bureau.)

Shall I wean the baby in hot weather?

This question is asked by many mothers whose babies are approaching the age of one year. The best answer probably is "do not wean the baby suddenly, in the very midst of the hot spell."

But, on the other hand, it is most unwise to keep the baby at the breast after the milk has become scanty and poor in quality. The best plan is to begin the weaning process by the sixth of the month, or thereabouts, giving a little properly modified fresh milk, once a day.

From this age on, each month may see the gradual introduction of certain foods, and the cautious substitution of bottle for breast feedings, until by the tenth of the month, or a little earlier or later, as the case may be, the baby is well accustomed to the new food and can be fed thus through the hottest weather in safety.

If the baby is still in the first half of the first year, every effort should be made to keep up the supply of breast milk, even if a little supplementary bottle-feeding must occasionally be given.

In such cases, it best to "strip" both breasts at each nursing, giving the supplementary milk only after the baby has taken all the breast milk he can get.

If, however, the baby must be fed on the bottle, it will be well to make the feedings weaker than usual, when the weather is very hot. It is far better to under-feed the baby for a little while, than to run the risk of an attack of diarrhea.

The easiest way to weaken the food is to pour off an ounce or more from each bottle and make up the amount of fluid by adding an equal quantity of water. Or the milk and sugar may be decreased and the water increased when the feedings are made up.

If the baby does not care to eat do not urge his food upon him. A flagging appetite is very common in summer, and the baby will make up for his lack, as soon as the cooler days come. Give him a great deal of cool (not iced) drinking water. It is well to boil all the water used for the baby. It can be cooled in glass jars, either on ice or by standing the jars in running water.

Little babies should be given drinking water in a nursing bottle between feedings and at night. Older ones should be offered water very frequently.

(Tomorrow: Care of bottled milk.)

A banker in a certain city decided to find out the number of times a dollar changed hands during a week. So he marked a dollar bill and, through advertisements in the newspapers, asked those who received the marked bill to advise him where they got it and where they spent it. He asked particularly that it be spent only in the home town. At the end of the week he requested that the bill be returned to him,

He was astonished to learn that it had changed hands 72 times during the week. One merchant had received it three times.

BISHOP MITCHELL DELIVERS LECTURE THE PRIZE TAKER

A. D. Helgerson and Mrs. Carrie B. Huschka United in Marriage Saturday

SPARTA, Wis. — (Special.)—On Wednesday evening, May 24 at the Methodist church in this city, the Rev. Charles Bayard Mitchell, D. D., L. L. D. of the St. Paul area of the Methodist Episcopal church, will deliver his great lecture, "The Prize Taker." The lecture is one that will be of interest to all, and will be instructive as well as entertaining.

Rev. Mitchell will preside at the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Morrow Memorial Home for the Aged, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, and in the afternoon will preside at the semi-annual meeting of the West Wisconsin Conference Board of Home Missions and Church Extension. The Bishop and the visiting directors and ministers will be guests at a dinner which will be served by the Ladies' Aid society in the dining room of the church at noon.

A. D. Helgerson, clerk of the court at Viroqua, and Mrs. Carrie B. Huschka, of Minneapolis, formerly a resident of Sparta, were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in the presence of a few relatives and friends, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Anderson at Viroqua. Mrs. Anderson being a sister of the bride. Rev. Harris was the officiating clergyman. Following the ceremony, a sumptuous dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Helgerson have established their home in the Satchel bungalow on West Maple street, Viroqua, where the good wishes of many friends will follow them.

The Sparta Country club will open for the season of 1923, on Thursday, May 25. The committees appointed for the season are as follows:

House committee—Mr. H. S. McGiffin, chairman; Mrs. Wilmar Wright, Mrs. Otto Bell, Mrs. C. H. Tourville.

Special entertainment committees—May 25 to June 7 inclusive—H. S. McGiffin, chairman; Mrs. Wilmar Wright, Mrs. Otto Bell, Mrs. C. H. Tourville.

Tourville, Mrs. H. S. McGiffin, Mrs. Z. S. Rice, Mrs. George Barlow, Mrs. Abe Naset, Mrs. J. F. Rice and Mrs. W. H. Foreman.

The county commencement exercises will be held June 2 at Sparta. These exercises for the rural schools will include all eighth grade pupils who will receive their diplomas, and all should be present.

In the forenoon, the county contest in spelling, arithmetic, and penmanship will be given at 10:30 o'clock. The commencement program will begin promptly at 1:30 o'clock. A good speaker will be present. There will be a parade in which the districts will be represented, many are already planning floats and banners. It is suggested that each district decorate an auto truck, and invite the teachers and pupils from your district to take part in the parade. There will be special floats for the township contestants also one for the pupils having perfect attendance records for the year. There will be basket dinner and community picnic at noon. The exercises will be held on the court house square at noon. Everybody boost.

Every Standard Oil Product A Primary Product

THE term by-product is susceptible of misinterpretation. In the manufacturing activities of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) there are no by-products. The making of every product is a separate activity. Each is made to conform to a predetermined standard, and is judged strictly on its merits as a primary product.

Lubricating oils made by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) conform to a standard fixed by lubricating engineers to meet the needs of various types of machinery. The standard being fixed, it is necessary to obtain crude oil of the particular type best adapted to yield the lubricating units which will conform to this standard.

There are many kinds of crude petroleum, each differing one from the other. Even between the oils delivered by different wells in the same field a considerable variance has been noted. One kind of crude oil will yield a maximum of lubricating oil of fine quality; another may yield little, or none, of these fractions, but will yield a maximum of gasoline.

In selecting crudes for lubricants, for instance, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been careful to choose those which have the physical characteristics necessary to maintain the correct lubricating body under working conditions. These crudes are then carefully processed and refined to produce the long line of lubricants manufactured and sold by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Their manufacture is a business in itself. From the choice of materials which go into them, down to the last operation of refining, they are of primary consideration. This care in the selection of raw materials; every step of the refining process, and the fact that products manufactured by this Company are of superior quality is recognized generally. This is evidenced by the fact that during 1921 nearly 25 million gallons of Polarine, the Perfect Motor Oil, were needed to supply the demand.

So with every product refined by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). Each is made to perform a certain service, and each goes to the consumer with the unqualified guarantee of this Company that it is exactly as represented and that it will give a maximum of service, at a price which is fair to all.

RAIN HALTS TIGERS AND MACKS IN ELEVENTH, 5-5
 Faber Tight in Pinches; Sox Beat Griffs, 4 to 3

NEW YORK—Babe Ruth knocked out his first home run of the season on Monday night, defeating the St. Louis Browns in thirteen innings, 4 to 3. Ruth hit his clutch clout off Van Liew in the eighth, the Yankees tied the score in the ninth and won on Judge's single, Phipps' sacrifice and Judge's double. Score: New York, 4; St. Louis, 3. Batteries: Van Liew, Phipps and Judge; Shawkey, Bush and Schang.

Tigers, 5; Macks, 5
PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Sudden showers stopped the game between Philadelphia and Detroit on Monday night in the eleventh inning with a score of 5-5. A home run in the ninth inning with two men on base by Pinch Hitter Clark, a rookie from the Texas League, tied the score and sent the game into extra innings. Cuslaw, Walker and Hoffman also made circuitous. Score: Philadelphia, 5; Detroit, 5. Batteries: Cuslaw, Walker and Hoffman; Cuslaw, Walker and Hoffman.

Sox, 4; Griffs, 3
WASHINGTON, D. C.—Chicago defeated Washington, 4 to 3, on Monday night. Faber being at his best with men on bases, a fast double play on a bunt by Judge to Phipps and a sacrifice by Judge, the president and Mrs. Harding attended the game, which was a benefit for the Children's Hospital. Score: Chicago, 4; Washington, 3. Batteries: Faber and Schalk; Erickson and Garity.

Indians, 7; Red Sox, 1
BOSTON, Mass.—Morton held Boston to six hits on Monday, Cleveland leading 7 to 1. Quinn's wildness in the second inning and Speaker's triple, Gabe's double and O'Neill's single in the third off Carr were mainly responsible for the visitors' run. Speaker made a single, double and triple and drew a pass. After the third inning Carr and Fullerton left Cleveland to two hits. Score: Cleveland, 7; Boston, 1. Batteries: Morton and O'Neill; Carr, Fullerton and Ruel.

SPINNERS' NINE FROM ONALASKA WALLOPS HOLMEN

The Western Spinning Mill team of Onalaska defeated the Holmen baseball team on their own grounds last Sunday 12 to 5. Horn's drive in the first inning with the bases jammed featured the game. He drove in three runs ahead of him, stopping at third.

Batteries: Onalaska—Robert, Dahl and Schilling; Holmen—Tolstadi, Tabbert and Brown.

INTERSCHOLASTIC TRACK MEET AT MADISON SATURDAY TO BE LARGEST IN HISTORY

BY BOB DUNN
 Over 500 high school athletes have been entered by Wisconsin schools in the 28th annual state interscholastic track and field meet to be held at Camp Randall under the auspices of the university next Saturday. The large number of entries which have been received by the university authorities makes the meet the biggest in the history of the high school track and field competition. Sixty-one high schools have entered teams of which 23 are entered in class A which is the class that the entries from the La Crosse high school will compete in.

Milwaukee Strong
 In class A Milwaukee University has a strong representation and should make a strong bid for first honors. Their team is built around Graf, his weight man, but he will have plenty of help from Shea in the pole vault, Henkel in the 440 and Grossman in the mile. Stoughton, winner of the class B competition last year, will compete as a class A school in this year's meet.

Great Guard in Tebell as Head of Badger 1923 Five Successful in Three Major Sports at University this Year

BY BOB DUNN
 Gus Tebell, football star, member of the basketball squad for the past two years and on the baseball squad this season, has been elected to captain the basketball five at the university next year. Tebell, who has another year at the university, has taken part in three major sports this year with good success in each field. At the end of the last basketball season he was placed on the all-conference mythical basketball eleven as a guard by Referee Young. Tebell was out of the game a part of last season with an injury but was a powerful defensive player while he was in the harness, which was for the greater part of the conference season.

GOVERNOR BLAINE TO DELIVER GRADUATING TALK AT VALPARAISO
 Executive Will also be Commencement Speaker at Delavan and Janesville

MADISON, Wis.—Three commencement addresses will be made by Governor Blaine in the next three weeks. The governor will deliver the main address at the exercises of Valparaiso university, Indiana, on Thursday, May 25. Early Tuesday evening, June 13, he will address the graduating students at the state school for the deaf at Delavan, motoring immediately thereafter to Janesville, where he will deliver a second address to the classes at the state school for the blind. Besides these Governor Blaine will make several other addresses and speeches during the next two weeks. On Friday, June 2, he will speak to the United Commercial travelers at Paul Durand, Sunday, June 4, to the Modern Woodmen at their memorial services at Oregon, Dane county, and on Monday, June 7 he will deliver the address of welcome at the annual convention of the Eagles at Madison. Previous to these he will make a speech at Blanchardville on Monday, May 29, at the Yellowstone community gathering.

IN THE SPORT MIRROR

By R. L. RANGSBERG
 What does it profit the city of La Crosse to have a championship Normal baseball team. That goal, of course, has not been attained as yet but prospects were never brighter.
 The Normal on Friday afternoon meets River Falls on the local diamond. To accommodate business men and many who could not attend until that time, the game will not start until 3:45. With Schultz, Gunderson and Stoneman as principals, the Normal boasts the best team in its history.
 According to the Normal custom this year there will be no admission charge to the game but a collection will be made on the grounds. And that is the point of the story. Fans will appreciate the fact that a large expense is entailed in bringing River Falls here. Then, too, in spite of having the championship team, the basketball schedule left the Normal athletic association facing a considerable deficit. The football season was not entirely a success financially.
 Now here is the baseball team looming as the most formidable contender for the state championship among the conference schools. The team, which we believe to be the best in its class in the state, is asking the co-operation and support of La Crosse. To carry on in the future as it has in the past the athletic association must be self-sustaining. What will it be worth to you to see the team play River Falls next Friday afternoon?

"ROWDY" ELLIOTT GETS OFFER TO JOIN ATHLETICS AT CLOSE OF PRESENT BASEBALL SEASON

BY BOB DUNN
 Alvin "Rowdy" Elliott, well known in La Crosse, who has been playing a stellar game at short for the Wisconsin nine this season, has had an offer from the Athletics to join them at the end of the present season at a reported salary of $400 per month. While Elliott has not announced any definite decision in the matter, his friends state that he will probably decline the offer.
 Since attending the La Crosse normal some years ago, Elliott has had his mind on the coaching game and it is thought that he may accept one of the many coaching offers that he now has under consideration.
 Elliott is one of the most prominent athletes that has attended Wisconsin. His two major sports are football and baseball and in each he has demonstrated that he is an outstanding star. Last year he captained the baseball team and this season has been playing even a more spectacular game than he did last year, winning the title, "the Babe Ruth of the conference," because of his ability at pounding out four circuit clouts. In hardly a single game of the year has Elliott failed to connect for at least one clout for extra bases. On Saturday against Iowa he got three hits in four trips to the plate. One was a two bagger.

VANCE SHADES CHEEVES IN DUEL; ROBINS WIN, 3-0

Eraves Beat Cards in Thirteen Innings, 8 to 6

CINCINNATI.—Cincinnati again outbatted and outfielded New York, winning Monday's game, 7 to 2. Rixey held the visitors in check in all but two innings. Nehf was hit sharply, as was Ryan. Score: New York 100 010 000—2 Cincinnati 210 001 03x—7 Nehf, Ryan and Snyder; Rixey and Hargrave.

Robins, 3; Cubs, 0
CHICAGO—Vance had the better of a pitching duel with Cheeves on Monday holding Chicago to four scattered hits, while Brooklyn hit timely and shut out the locals 3 to 0. A walk, a forceout, a single and sacrifice gave the visitors the first run and they clinched the game in the ninth when Wheat's home run drive, following a double accounted for two more runs. Score: Brooklyn 100 000 002—3 Chicago 000 000 000—0 Vance and Deberry; Cheeves and O'Farrell.

Eraves 8; Cards 6
ST. LOUIS—Eraves by Ainsmith and Stock of the Cardinals gave the Boston Braves an 8 to 6 victory in thirteen innings here on Monday. Stock's wild throw home permitted two runs to score in the final inning. Southworth, and Boeckle, made timely hits. Ainsmith's errors put Perlie in a hole which the Braves made the best on. Hornsby hit a homer in the seventh inning with two on and knotted the count. It was his eighth consecutive drive. The score: Boston 302 010 000 002—8 St. Louis 002 010 300 000 0—6 Miller, McMillan and Gowdy; Perlie, North and Ainsmith.

FORMER JUSTICE OF BADGER HIGH COURT DEAD AT MADISON

Death of Roujet D. Marshall
Comes Monday Night After Six Weeks' Illness

SERVED ON SUPREME BENCH
FOR TWENTY-THREE YEARS

Wrote Famous Opinion in Ekern-McGovern Case

MADISON, Wis.—Roujet D. Marshall, 75, a justice of the Wisconsin supreme court from 1895 to 1918, died here Monday night after an illness of six weeks. His death followed a relapse after it was believed that he was recovering.

Former Justice Marshall for twenty-three years was a prominent member of the state tribunal, his written opinions being more voluminous than those of any other member of the court.

In 1913 Justice Marshall wrote the opinion in the Ekern-McGovern case which grew out of the attempt of Governor McGovern to remove Herman Ekern and which is the most widely quoted among the Wisconsin decisions.

Born in Nashua, N. Y. on December 1848 of Colonial ancestors, Justice Marshall spent his early childhood in the east. With his parents he came to Wisconsin in 1854, settling in Sauk county.

There Mr. Marshall remained until 1871, receiving his education at Dot- ton, Baraboo and Lawrence college, Appleton. He commenced the study of law when 17 and was admitted to the bar when 24, when he took up the practice of law at Chippewa Falls.

From 1876 to 1882 he served as county judge of Chippewa county. He was elected circuit judge in 1888, serving until the time of his appointment to the supreme court in 1895 by Governor Upham. Justice Marshall was re-elected three times, serving until 1918 when he was defeated for re-election by Justice Owen.

Distinguished judicial service of Justice Marshall was recognized by Lawrence which conferred on him the honorary degree of doctor of laws in 1914, and by the University of Wisconsin, which conferred the same honorary degree in 1915.

Funeral services are to be held at Madison on Thursday.

WES BARRY—RIVOLI

An enthusiastic reception was again accorded the showing of Gus Edwards' "School Days," featuring the freckle-faced movie star, Wesley Barry, at the Rivoli Monday.

The appeal of "School Days" is irresistible, because it serves to bring back to the older generation the days when they were a couple of kids; to the youngsters it will serve as a treat because they can witness one of their own kind going through all the pranks, the disappointments and the joys of boyhood.

There is the familiar swimmer, the freckling pal, a dog, and the familiar little slanting, the school house, big enough to take care of a handful of youngsters. Wesley Barry, as Speck Brown, is an orphan. His guardian, a stern man, uses the rod in order to enforce obedience. But Speck more or less ignores him until one day he meets his wealthy uncle. Then things begin to change.

Speck is sent East for an education. He mingles with the youngsters of wealthy people; he tries to be chummy, but they snub him. He tries to finance an invention, "You Can't Lose It" (clothes line), invented by his eccentric old friend back on the farm and finds himself in the mesh of a couple of swindlers. He becomes disgusted with his surroundings and longs to get back to nature's playground—to his dog and his little sweetheart and the swimming hole. Deserving his surroundings he goes back home on a freight train. There are many other interesting

TOM MEIGHAN — MAJESTIC

Appearing to excellent advantage in a delightful role, Thomas Meighan made a deep impression in his latest picture, "A Prince There Was" at the Majestic theater yesterday. The story deals with an idle rich young man who tires of his environment and seeking new fields, finds romance and love. Mr. Meighan vests the role with sympathy and feeling and he is ably supported by Mildred Harris who is the girl in the case. There are many moments of suspense and thrill and on the whole, the production is far above the average. The other roles are ably portrayed by Nigel Barries, Guy Oliver, Sylvia Ashton, Charlotte Jackson, Fred Huntly and Arthur Hall. The picture was directed by Tom Forman.

CASINO TODAY

If Tom Edison had asked in his questionnaire: "Where is Denver and how far is it from New York?" Johnnie Walker would have stood right up and answered promptly. He could have told also just what the railroad fare was—before the war. For Johnnie was stranded in Denver once. And if Tom had requested additional information Johnnie would have stated: "They are artistic. They love dancing. And are willing to pay to learn." Today he is being co-starred with pretty Edna Murphy in the William Fox production "Live Wires," now being shown at the Casino Theater.

STRAND TODAY

An excellent screen offering is to be found at the Strand today, where "Who Am I?" the latest National Picture, is holding forth as the headline attraction.

What impresses the observer most on witnessing this production is its uniformity in every department. The cast is composed of players who are about equally balanced as to ability, although the greater opportunities go to Claire Anderson and Niles Welch. The settings are all of richness and refinement, and even the scenes depicting the gambling house are conspicuous by the good taste displayed in creating the required atmosphere and still avoiding an over-display of luxury.

RIVIERA TODAY

"Rip Van Winkle," the newest Hodkinson release which opened last night at the Riviera Theater, where it will fill a two day engagement is a picture which will certainly delight every type of theater-goer for it contains every single element that makes for success.

There is comedy, clean, fast-moving, side-splitting, and tense drama to hold you engrossed. The choice of players was a singularly fortunate one, for each artist is admirably suited to his or her role.

Thomas Jefferson as "Rip" gives a masterful performance. And his supporting cast which includes Milla Davenport, Pietro Sessa, Francis Carpenter—the child actor—Max Asher and Daisy Robinson is almost equally gifted.

The Winter Garden Follies have a laughing show in addition to the feature picture.

SHOW AERO DEVELOPMENT

The remarkable collection of pictures, which will be more highly prized as years go by, is the series of American aeronautical photographs which ex-Major Ernest Jones, army air service, has gathered during his fifteen years in this work. They cover the development of aeronautics, particularly aviation, from 1863 to 1917. The 1,800 photographs visualize the successive steps made by the Wright brothers, Curtiss, Thomas, Wittemann and other pioneers in this country. Some of these are the

DRY CONVENTION DELEGATES PLEDGE SUPPORT TO POLICY OF STRICT LAW ENFORCEMENT

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The support of churches, temperance societies, the press, and schools and colleges to a policy of strict law enforcement, including effective application of the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution, was pledged by speakers at the law enforcement convention of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league which opened here Tuesday.

Hundreds of delegates from over the state are in attendance at the gathering which R. P. Hutton, state superintendent, says is to be Wisconsin's answer to those who favor a modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer. He declares that the convention will show the strength of the dry vote in this state and its effect in the coming election.

The two-day convention opened with special exercises arranged by the officers of the Anti-Saloon league. Included on the program are addresses by Congressmen, the U. S. prohibition commissioner, Attorney General Morgan, presidents of various temperance organizations and A. J. Volstead, author of the federal prohibition law.

Addressing the convention W. A. Gauffield, president of Carroll College, Waukesha, said that the college students of the state were united in their support of "wise legislation, faithful observance, and rigid enforcement of every article of the constitution of the nation and the state."

Safeguards the Republic
"The eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution is the resolute attempt of a thoughtful people to grapple with one of the most perplexing problems affecting the entire social welfare," President Gauffield said. "The rigid enforcement of law, the faithful observance of every enactment, are fundamental to the social security of the republic."

"No man and no citizen who would for one moment become neglectful toward the observance of that law, and no officer or statesman who would for a moment condone its violation or be careless toward its enforcement and full observance can be regarded otherwise than as a disloyal citizen to the constitution and the flag."

The Rev. Father J. C. Hogan of Stevens Point representing the Catholic Total Abstinence society of America, declared that the church stood solidly for law enforcement and law observance without reservation, saying that every citizen must stand "four-square and unalterably for the sanctity of the law."

Church Pledges Support
This position was supported by L. A. Gordon, assistant secretary of state and president of the Luther League. "The overwhelming majority of the league membership not only supports enforcement of prohibition because it is a duty, it is a pleasure to them because they have long fought to obtain the law," Mr. Gordon said. "Dry leaders have declared that the Scandinavian population of Wisconsin has been the backbone of the fight against liquor in this state."

"If those who are charged with the responsibility of enforcement of prohibition are keeping the faith, it should be made certain that they will also keep their office, but if they are betraying their oath of office, then they should be denied continuance in office," Mrs. C. M. Barr, president of the federation of church women said in her address to the convention.

Woman Back of Prohibition
"The church women of America will stand by prohibition enforcement at this crucial time," she said. "The women of the church must be the fountain head, the main spring of demand for effective enforcement. The forces which are now opposing prohibition enforcement are the same."

be better than the reader. It is, often, but its function is not to save sinners; its biggest job is to make it easier to be decent.

"When the nation suddenly awoke to the fact that booze was destroying the entire efficiency of the human race, it was no job to get whiskey and its allies placed in the category of prohibited poisons."

"A few newspapers preach nullification of the law. Their influence, however, is far less than that of the wife who used to put her drunken husband to bed. It lost none of its moral tone, but added the economic feature."

Discontent a Good Thing
"They say prohibition has caused economic discontent. Maybe so. I know of nothing that has made for progress in the world so much as discontent. Without it we would have had no railroads, no telegraph, no telephones and no sewing machines."

"I have known contented men. They were and are yet the loafers on Main street and the wife is taking in washing. One contented man said he did not believe in labor, as he had lost four wives from overwork."

Newspaper Not a Preacher
"The newspaper is not a preacher. If it were, it would have a congregation so large as to demand a raise in salary and deserve it. The newspaper is a business institution."

"There is a misunderstanding about the functions of a newspaper. It is a great photograph playing, not its own, but the records made by the world. Some newspapers play mostly jazz sung in falsetto; others only the ponderous compositions; still others give a concert attuned to many interests. That is the real newspaper. The only record the newspaper makes for itself is the editorial page. Some read; most do not."

"Many people want a newspaper to crime and we have prohibition. It takes money to support liquor violations. Talk frequently and earnestly about Americanizing the alien—teaching him respect for law, making a constitutional scholar. We should turn to the Americanization of the rich man who is trying to Europeanize the American nation."

"I notice in one newspaper that, without booze, we get no great works of genius. Yet for twenty years a boozing newspaper man has been looked upon with distrust. The only flowers on the booze road have been the ones on the coffin at the end."

"I have yet to read in any newspaper an advocate of the return of the saloon. Practically every supporter of the light wine and beer program is qualified to belong to the Anti-Saloon league. Also, I note that if we have light wines and beers it will not bring back the saloon. I suppose they are to be vendued in churches, Sunday schools, and in public schools, automobile repair shops, millinery emporiums and department stores."

Wisconsin Business University,
La Crosse, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen—I am glad to recommend the Wisconsin Business University to anyone that is interested in a business education.

I have found the "WBU" just as it is represented to be. I completed the combined High Speed Course and found it to be very thorough and well planned. The teachers are some of the best I have ever had and they are always cheerful and ready to help the student.

The school has a business atmosphere during school hours which makes the training more effective. Many of my school friends such as Matt Eott, Kenneth, Sheldahl, John Novotny, Charles Wolf and a great many others have secured good positions.

I entered the "WBU" with a high school education and I chose this school because I thought it was the best of its kind in this vicinity. Before coming here I was able to do only plain labor and I came here to get an education which would, in a short time, enable me to do something better.

I am now successfully located due to the efforts of the "WBU". I wish the school every success in the future.

Yours sincerely,
ELMER BERG.

ANN PENNINGTON AND GEORGE WHITE "SCANDALS" JUNE 5

Famous Revue With Noted
Feature Players to Come to City

Ann Pennington, George White, Lou Holtz, Charles Howard, Marie and George, the world's greatest dancers, Olive Vaughn, Victoria Herbert, George, Josephine Leigh, Helen Le Vonne, Wade Booth, Sam Ledner, Ruth Savoy, Myra Cullen, Evelyn Conway, Mae Morris and Darryl Wellford, are a few of the original cast of entertainers who will be seen here at the La Crosse theater, Monday, June 5, in George White's "Scandals." This is said to be the most important musical revue ever presented in America. It is coming here following sensational runs in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston.

This engagement is of unusual importance inasmuch as it will mark the initial presentation here of any of Mr. White's popular revues. More than 100 players are required to properly cast this big revue.

The downy woodpecker is valuable as it eats many insects infesting trees.

HIS DISTINCTION

"Looky here, Gawge," said Henry Higgletham to his friend, Digglethorp, "what do you always call your wife 'the old woman' for? It don't sort of seem real respectful like."

"Oh, shucks, now, Hennerly! I don't mean no disrespect to Ma's Jane when I call her 'old woman.' I mean I fight down complimentary to her. I jus' call her 'old woman' to sort of boast she ain't one of them here 'new women.'"—Judge.

Increases the action of the intestines

Hundreds of men and women have already found freedom from laxatives by eating Fleischmann's fresh yeast.

Doctors are now agreed that proper elimination of waste matter should be brought about by food. One doctor comes right out and states plainly that the indiscriminate use of cathartics is one of the causes of constipation.

Physicians all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast because it is a fresh food, rich in those elements which keep the intestines healthy. In one series of tested cases, normal functions were restored in from 3 days to 5 weeks.

Try it out for yourself. Begin today by adding 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast to your everyday diet. Keep it up and see how normally and regularly your intestines act. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer.
